SENSATIONAL FRENCH REPORT. That a Revision of the Constitution Is Contemplated.

London, September 9 .- The Daily Chroni cle's Paris correspondent says that a start ling attempt to revise the French constitu tion is contemplated. The national assembly is to be convoked at Versailles to consider a plan for the modification of the office of the president of the republic. The Chronicle, in an editorial, says:

"If the foregoing is verified it is evident that an attempt will be made to take advantage of the visit of M. Faure to St. Petersburg to bring the president's position nearer to that of a hereditary monarch, and possibly the Bonapartists and Orleanists factions might be induced to suppor such a movement, and there is no Gambetta to resist it. But we doubt if any serious attempt will be made. M. Hand taux is the strongest man in the ministry, but neither he nor M. Faure is likely to be the pivot for a change."

PRIVATE CAMPS BREAKING UP

Judges Order the Enforcement of the Law in All Cases,

Others Are Preparing To Take Charge of Their Own Convicts-Talks with Judges and Solicitors About the Future of Convict Problem.

Attorney General Terrell yesterday issued the following self explanatory state-

Misdemeanor convicts may be Iegally worked in four ways: First. Upon the chaingang of the county where the convict is sentenced. Second. Upon the chaingang of any incorporated town, city or village of the county.

Third. Upon the chaingang of any other county of the state under a contract between the authorities of the two counties interested. Fourth. Upon any works except mechanical pursuits wherein the products of their labor will come into competition with the products of free labor, that the county authorities may see fit to employ the chaingang, provided, the control of the convicts is not given to private persons. Under this latter plan the county authorities may employ them upon the farm of a private person, employ them at cutting timber for the sawmill of a private person, etc., but the county authorities must retain control of the convicts and not let any private person have management or control of them.

Camps Are Breaking Up.

Of the eight hundred misdemean victs illegally confined in private camps in Georgia three hundred have already been unshackled from their lawless' bondage and put to work upon the public roads of the counties which convicted them. The camps which still exist are slowly but surely disintegrating, and it is now a question of a very short time when the good work of reform which Governor Atcinson inaugurated a few months ago is

Every day brings fresh evidence of the healthy work of the leaven of reform in this loaf of illegality. Already the countles of Jasper, Hancock, Richmond, Wilkes, Elbert, Bulloch, Appling and Washington have joined in the good work, and the meeting of the fall term of other superior and county courts will unquestion ably complete the job. Governor Atkinson says that he does not believe there will be a single private misdemeanor convict -camp in Georgia by the time the next legislature meets, and there is plenty of evidence to sustain his prediction. The Constitution has already told of the breaking up of the private camps in the countles above mentioned. Here is further information on the same line: The firm of C. M. & F. L. Sweat, lessees fee and surrounding counties, are now arranging to turn all the convicts in their possession over to the counties from which they received them. The Messrs, Sweat are good citizens and they have leased misdemeanor convicts simply because the system had been in vogue in Georgia so long that it was generally understood that centered on the violation of the law and public sentiment has crystallized in favor of the enforcement of the law, the Messrs Sweat will go out of the business of leasing misdemeanor convicts. They leased wiregrass section of the state and have been doing so for a long time. They are now making arrangements to confuct their business with free labor, and it is probable that the last of the misdemeanor convicts held by them will be placed in the hands of the counties from which they were leased in less than a fortnight. In reference to the suit institute Lawyer Frank Z. Curry, of Jickson, against Former Contractor Lee, of ton county, The Constitution is in receipt of a communication from Mr. W. B. Lee. of Covington, in which he explains the shooting incident on which the suit is based. He says that an ex-convict went to his camp and deliberately pointed a pistol at one of his hands; and whether the shooting was accidental or not he cannot, say. It was claimed to be accidental. Mr. Lee says that the convict who was shot lost nearly two months, in addition to a medical bill of 510, paid by him as lessee. The negro who did the shooting agreed to work four months. which he did; and Mr. Lee says he was perfectly satisfied until word was sent him that he had a good case for damages. He did not wear stripes and shackles and was clothed and fed by the lessee as any other free hand would have been. The case was tried twelve months ago and

New Orleans is almost ready to declare that it has had a scare for nothing. Dr. Oliphant and his staff have slept but little in the past seventy-six hours and have fairly honeycombed the city for suspicious cases of fever without result.

Deep interest has naturally been felt here

the outcome of the examination of Dr. uiteras, who arrived at Ocean Springs this morning. Under instructions from the superintendent of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, Dr. Cuiteras was put off in the woods a couple of miles from Ocean Springs. It was not long thereafter before the doctor ran up against the quarantine troche and the distinguished visitor had to fully establish his identity before he was permitted to run the line. On his arrival in Ocean Springs, Dr. Guiteras went imrediately to work and investigated a nu ber of cases of the prevailing sickness. He found only two cases, it is said, that deserve the term suspicious, and in answer to an inquiry he said he hoped to be able to wire the result of his examination to Wasnington this evening. In the meantime a corespondent wired to the city that he ! lectued from a source that could not be doubted that Dr. Guiteras, after his examination, had not been entirely convinced that any yellow fever has existed or does exist in Ocean Springs. The local physi-cians are not prepared to say what effect mopinion by Dr. Guiteras counter to that expressed by the four experts, who declared the cases they investigated were yellow feer, would have. A thorough canvass of the wards of the Springs was completed this evening and shows that there have been 748 cases of the prevailing fever since July 8th. There are now thirty-seven still sick. The total deaths have been nine and several instances physicians show the fever was complicated with other diseases. There are believed to have been only two deaths due to yellow jack. At the suggestion of Dr. Grant, every house where there has been sickness, or there is now, is being fully fumigated. Final arrangements to handle the Biloxi and Ocean Springs mail were completed to-day. The railroad managers sent over a all crane today and the pouch will be taken by trains both ways after the bags have been fumigated. After Dr. Guiteras as completed his investigation a quarantine detention station will be established. Those who are not ill will be detained at the station until they are considered worthy to be given clean bills of health, and will then be permitted to go to their homes. There are sixty-five residents of New Orleans who are tied up in Ocean Springs and anxious to get away and some fifteen from other points.

There is a law in Mississippi against the violation of quarantine laws. Usually in yellow fever epidemics, however, an unwritten law prevails, enforced by the shotgun and that is the law which is now in effect about Ocean Springs and Biloxi. Biloxi people are not absolutely convinced that the fever there is yellow fever. Dr. Harraison has so pronounced the cases, but when he has completed his investigation at Ocean Springs Dr. Guiteras will be asked to visit Biloxi and determine posi-tively whether or not Dr. Harralson has correctly diagnosed the disease. Whatver the fever is, it had a good effect, for on all hands residents are carrying into effect Mayor Howard's recommendation to put their homes in proper sanitary condiion and to abstain from congregating any-

Macon, Ga., September 8 .- (Special.) -According to the statement of J. E. Warnock, of Savannah, he and Miss Marie Lamar, of Milledgeville, were married in Macon last night, but up to late tonight the name of the preacher who married them cannot be ascertained and no marriage license was obtained from the ordinary of Bibb county, though Warnock may have got it in some other city and brought it to Macon with him.

He reached Macon yesterday morning at 4 o'clock and registered at the Ellis house on Fourth street, near the depot. Miss Lamar arrived from Milledgeville last evening about 6 o'clock and she also went to the Ellis house. He and Miss Lamar went to a room, and Warnock sent for Proprietor Popst and told him that they were not

About 7 o'clock last evening a preacher approached Officer Fretwell and asked him to take Miss Lamar in charge, as she was being enticed from her home by Warnock, and that her father, Colonel Richard N. Lamar, of Milledgeville, would pay well to have his daughter taken in charge.

Patrolman Fretwell didn't care to act without consulting Chief of Police Boifeuillet. The chief would not order any arrest, as he had received no instructions from Milledgeville officials or Miss Lamar's relatives. Chief Boifeuillet telegraphed to the chief of police of Milledgeville, asking if Miss Lamar's relatives desired her detained or taken in charge at Macon, but no answer was received to this telegram and Chief Boifeuillet let the matter drop.

Last night about half-past 8 o'clock Warnock and Miss Lamar left the Ellis house telling Proprietor Propst that they were going to the residence of Mr. Monk, pastor of Mulberry Street Methodist church, to be married.

Later they returned to the Ellis house and informed Propst that they were wedded. They left the Ellis house finally at half-past 11 o'clock last night to take the Central midnight-train for Savannah on a bridal tour of several weeks to New York, so Warnock informed Proprietor Propst As a matter of fact, however, Warnock only purchased tickets as far as Tennille, about fifty miles below Macon. Dr. Monk said today he had not married the couple. Miss Lamar has splendid family connec tions and while her Macon relatives did not know of her presence in Macon last night, they believe she has been married to Warnock. SHE MAY MARRY A RICH DENTIST Said That Her Parents Want Her To Become the Wife of Dr. Palmer.

Baron a Newspaper Man.

Here is a pretty story of the love affairs of a young Atlanta girl, who has been go ing to school in Baltimore. Miss Bertina Whyte, formerly well known in this city, is the heroine of the story of true love. She has been in the Visitation academy, at Frederick, Md., for two years. It seems that while away she fell in love with a handsome German baron, and now the parents of the young lady are exerting hemselves to prevent a marriage between her and the baron. It is said that they want her to wed a wealthy Atlanta dentist named Palmer. She refuses to marry him and says if she can't marry her baron she won't marry at all. Dr. Frederick B. Palmer, the well-known prescriptionist at Jacobs', who knows the Whyte family, was asked about the matter. The doctor firmly denied that he was the Palmer the young lady's parents want her

"I don't even know the young lady and have never seen her in my life," said the doctor, in a most positive and earnest man-

Dr. Palmer said that there was a young dentist here from Burke county who might be the man, but the dentist, it seems, has moved to Alabama

Miss Bertina will be brought back to Atlanta by her parents, who are determined that she shall not marry the baron. Here the story from Baltimore:

Baltimore, September 8.—(Special.)—At 1006 North Stricker street there is a pretty girl who is disconsolate because she did not get to wed her baron. Baron Poyssi Loifling, who is a newspa-per reporter, visited Baltimore this week to lope with Miss Bertina Whyte, but the lan was frustrated with the presence of The Whytes live in Atlanta, Ga. A married daughter of Mrs. Whyte, Mrs.

C. S. Kimes, lives at 1006 North Stricker street. Miss Bertina has been attending the Visitation academy, at Frederick, Md., and while there met the baron. There are two stories about this. One is that the girl only wrote to the baron in New York, starting the acquaintance in that way, but the girl's friends claim the baron paid a visit to Frederick and that the girl met nim at the house of a friend.

The baron came to Baltimore on Monday and met the girl at the house of her sister. There were plans for an elopement, made through a friend of the baron, but the mother kept close watch and the baron departed. The baron cannot speak English and what words were necessary to the com-pletion of the bliss of the couple had to be furnished by the baron's friend. The baron can write English, however. He has a dictionary and he picks out such words as he thinks would look well together, and the result has been sufficient to win Miss Whyte's heart.

The baron came to America to see how the newspaper business was conducted, and incidentally to look for a rich American girl for a wife. Mrs. Whyte told The Con stitution's correspondent tonight that nothing would come of the matter. Her daughbe a wedding. Mrs. Whyte said it was STOLE THE MAJOR'S TIMEPIECE. just a passing fancy and that the girl was only seventeen years old. The girl said she was eighteen. Mrs. Whyte said she would keep close watch upon her daughter as long as she remained in Baltimore. expects soon to take her home to Atlanta.

The girl is a brunette of pretty face. Her mother said she had about $10,000 which the baron wanted to get. The New York World had a story this morning about the baron's visit to Baltimore and his atachment for Miss Whyte and her money.

"The principal of the Visitation academy noticed that Miss Whyte's mail had sud-denly grown heavy. Instead of letters postmarked 'Atlanta' and written in her father's or mother's hand, she received letters from New York, with her name written in a masculine hand with a German flourish. Suspicion led to inquiry and the girl confessed that she was in corrospondence with a man in New York whom she hoped some day to call husband. The next mail south took a letter to Mr. Whyte, next mail south took a letter to Mr. Whyte, the girl's father, and the earliest possible train took him to Frederick.

"The ultimate story scene took place. The daughter refused to listen to her father's advice. He had intended that she should wed a wealthy dentist of Atlanta, who had set his heart on her. Miss Whyte refused to go home with her father. She refused to go home with her father. She said she would die first. She had given her heart to the only man she could ever ove, and she would marry him or nobody, The father saw that the girl was deter-mined and feared to cross her. However, she must be removed from the academy to a safer place where she would be under the eyes of a member of her family "To the home of his married daughter, Mrs. Kimes, in Baltimore, Mr. Whyte took his young daughter and left her there. But he could not stop the United States mail and the baron was soon informed by his sweetheart that she was supposedly a prisoner, but was perfectly free. Bertina's nother went to Baltimore from Atlanta watch over her child.

"Finding that her daughter was determined to wed the New Yorker and not the Atlanta dentist, Mrs. Whyte resolved to take her back to her Atlanta home in spite of herself. The time of departure was fixed and the girl was told to prepare for the journey.

"The baron was informed by his sweet-heart, by letter, of the departure intended and Bertina a few days ago wrote him that he must come immediately to Balti-more or he would lose her. In that letter Bertina told the baron that she would marry him quietly and after she had be-come the baroness she would still stay with her parents. Then when they pressed her to become Mrs. Palmer, wife of the Atlanta dentist, she would simply say:

"'I am the Baroness von Poyssi Loif-"It was a pretty little love plan, and if the parents should in return forgive her and welcome her husband how happy they would be. Some of the girl's letters to Otto were written in German; some bore two pages of English and two of German. All were written in a loving, innocent vein, and no wonder the baron was lost in love When he was not prompt in answering her letters she was heartbroken and wondered

SURPRISE TO THE DEFENSE

Prosecution Expects To Prove Mrs. Luetert Was Killed with This.

FALTERING WITNESSES ON THE STAND

Emma Schinke Subjected to a Rigid Cross-Examination-Many Women in the Courtroom.

Chicago, September 8.-The defense in the trial of Adolph Luetgert for wife murder were surprised by a move of the state in the trial today. What is considered to be one of the strongest pieces of evidence Christine Feldt, was introduced. Mrs. Luetgert's one-time sweetheart, was called to the stand by the state for the third time. As State's Attorney McEwen handed her an ugly appearing pocket knife, the blades of which were rusted, and asked her if she had ever seen it before. She testified that the big sausage manufacturer had given her this knife for safe keeping on the day of his arrest. The prosecution asserts that it was with this knife Luet-gert murdered his wife before placing her ody in the boiling potash, where it was dissolved.

The ugly-looking object was passed around for the inspection of the attorneys and was handed to Luetgert, who opened and closed the blades, gazing curiously at the weapon and scraping the blade with his finger as if to feel the stains which covered the blade. He evinced no emo-tion, though he knew that every person in the courtroom was closely watching and taking note of his every action. In talk-ing with his attorney he admitted the knife was his property. J. H. Odenbret and W. G. Cady, corset makers, were placed on the stand in suc-cession and positively identified the two alleged corset steels as having been the product of their factory. Certain marks on the two bits of metal were shown to correspond with similar marks with new steels which were produced in court. The the similarity and also to the fact that the new steels were of the pattern usually sold by their factory. It was considered by the state to be a great blow to the defense and was unexpected by the latter, who hoped to prove that the two pieces of steel were scale bands. Emma Schimpke, sister to Guttlieb Schimpke, who testified to having seen Luetgert and his wife enter the factory on the fatal evening, was placed on the stand to corroborate the testimony of her younger sister. She was a very faltering witness and suffered under the scathing cross-examination to which she was sub jected. She was apparently imbued with idea that she must testify only to those matters which hurt the cause of the defense. Judge Tuthill administered a kindly but firm lecture to the trembling girl. From her the defense secured the admission that she was not sure she saw Luetgert and his wife enter the factory and the defense also forced her to admit that she could not remember anything that happened on any other particular night than May 1st. When asked the day of the week upon May 1st fell she hesitated and then said "Saturday, wasn't it?" The defense felt that their cause had gained perceptibly from her testimony.

The court opened with the usual crowd clamoring for admission at the door. Within the courtroom the members of the fair sex predominated among the spectators and the little room was crowded to its utmost capacity. When Luetgert entered shortly before court was opened he repeated his manner of Tuesday, and smiling, nodded at the jury. He attempted to catch the cyo of Judge Tuthill, but that official refused to notice the prisoner. those matters which hurt the cause of the

A Thief Takes Major Frank Warren's Watch.

Jim Sneed, a negro man, was arrested yesterday afternoon by City Detective John B. Harris on the charge of larceny from the house. The negro is charged with stealing a fine gold watch from Major Frank Warren.

Major Frank Warren.

The major is one of the city weighers, and took a special pride in his watch. He was desirous of naving good weights and full tons given, but also correct time, He hung the watch on a nail in the wail of his office, and there it remained for some time, a constant source of delight not only to the major, but to his neighbors, who were wont to come in and glance at the suspended timepiece when in doubt as to the time of day.

Sneed passed the office one day and was immediately seized with a desire to emulate the example set by procrastination and become the thief of time. He did so, and then confusion worse confounded reigned in the office of the city weigher. In great grief Major Warren reported the matter to the detective department and J. B. Harris was set to work on the case. In a few days he located Jim Sneed, whom he supposed to be the thief, and upon arresting him the watch was found. The timepiece was returned to its rightful owner and he once more wears the smile which disappeared with the watch. A warrant will be sworn out against Sneed.

Trial in Macon.

Hodges Had Uttered but Few Words of Argument.

WHEN THE BEREAVED WOMAN SWOONED

This Was Her Second Collapse of the Day and the Judge Ordered Her To Keep Out of Court.

Macon, Ga., September 8.—(Special.)— When the sheriff rapped for order the courtroom was crowded to suffocation to hear arguments in the Reid case.

Just as Mrs. Halstead entered the room she fainted and had to be borne out in a chair.

The first speaker was Colonel C. A. Turner. Mr. Turner reviewed the evidence in the case and made a strong and convincing argument. He attacked the character of Halstead and made him appear in a particularly unfavorable light. When Mr. Turner had concluded, Solici-tor General Hodges rose and cegan his speech for the prosecution. He had uttered only a few sentences when Mrs. Halstead again fainted and the solicitor had to be stopped. She was again carried from the courtroom and Judge Felton forbade her return.

The speech made by Solicitor Hodges was considered by all to have been one of the ablest and most convincing argu-ments ever delivered in the Bibb county courtroom. Women wept as the solicitor told of the sufferings of the little widow who was away from home and telatives. He attacked Reid and it is the opinion of many that the speech made by the solicitor will go a far ways toward convincing the jury of Reid's guilt. Mr. Hodges took Reid's statement, word for word, and laid particular stress on the portion that was different from the one made at the coroner's inquest. Not a feature of the evidence was neglected by the little

Mr. Washington Dessau closed the argument for the defense in one of his most powerful arguments. He brought all the lower of his long experience and training nto play and closed with a beautiful tribute to the virtuous women of the south. Mr. Dessau concluded the final argument at 5:15 o'clock this afternoon, having spoken over two hours. C. A. At the conclusion of Mr. Dessau's speech Judge Felton announced that he would then adjourn court until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, when he will charge the jury.

Indictments.
Ga., September 8.—(Special.)— Both Dr. Kilpatrick and Frank Morris will be indicted by the Bibb county grand jury for the murder of Joe Spring at Midville a few months ago. At least Hon. Tom Felder, who was Kilpatrick's attorney at the former preliminary trial, says this will be done, and it is to be believed that he would not say so if he d.dn't know. Mr. Felder says he doesn't think Kilpatrick is guilty of the murder, but says the Butts grand jury will indict him in order to bring about a full investigation of the case. Detective Jones, who passed through Macon yesterday, says, however, that he will produce sufficient evidence to convict Kilpatrick. He says he has secured new evidence since he was last heard from.

NO REFUGEES COMING THIS WAY

Is No Panic.

THE SOLICITOR WAS SPEAKING NOBODY IS RUNNING AWAY

The Ocean Springs Fever More Like Dengue Than Anything Else.

It Is Not Near So Dangerous as It Used To Be-Sanitary Conditions Have Improved.

The trains from New Orleans came in on time yesterday. There was no detention at quarantine anywhere and no delays. A number of passengers got off the early morning train. Some were from Montgomery and several were from points beyond. On the midday train there no more passengers, than usual and none of them seemed to be refugees. One of the passengers named Moore said that there was no panie in New Orleans.

"I am in the wholesale business there and am going north on a business trip to keep an engagement made a month ago. I am going back next week. My wife and children are at home in New Orleans. You know a man would not refugee and leave his family behind him, and would I leave home if there was any danger of an epi-demic? I would send my family away, but stay there to do what I could for those who were unable to get away. I have had yellow fever and am an immune. There are probably 10,000 immunes in New Orleans and all of 20,000 there and along the coast and up the Mississippi valley. An army of that kind can stamp out an epidemic. We do not look for any more cases. There may be one or two sporadic cases, but there is no danger. Our health authorities are watchful. They will isolate any case that appears. There was a time when doctors would not report yellow fever pa-tients until an epidemic had been declared. That is no longer true. They know it is the best policy to report the very first one and every succeeding one and prevent the spread of the disease "There is no panic in New Orleans nor along the coast," said Mr. Moore. "If New Orleans was panic stricken, this train would be thronged with refugees, but you can see for yourself there are no more passengers on it than usual. The doctors are not right sure this is yellow fever of the old kind we used to have before the war. Very few of the fever patients die, hardly one in a hundred. In a real bad epidemic one in ten will die, and some imes more than that. I have observed in the last few years that yellow fever has been getting milder. The Jacksonville epidemic of 1888 was comparatively nild and then the Brunswick fever of three or four years ago was not malignant. This fever at Ocean Springs was thought to e dengue at first. That is a painful fever. You ache all over and your bones feel as if they would break in two, but it is not of the fatal kind. It is dreaded because of the pains that accompany it. With yellow fever you have some pain at first in the back of your neck and head and a very high fever. Delirium may come at any time. I have seen many men stricken in the street and fall down. When yellow fever has attacked you, the first thing to do is to get to bed, take a hot mustard foot bath and oil. More people die from poor nursing than from the fever itself. Patients in their fever will throw off the blankets and get cool. Coggestion fol-lows. But keep a fever patient covered up and perspiring freely, and he has a good chance to get well. "There is no epidemic and the best thing or all the towns is to keep cool. Their health authorities ought not to get excitnever quarantines. I would not advise any city to entice refugees into her gates, but if they want to come here, all right. Refugees, though, ought to go up into the mountains and scatter out. not to settle down in cities unless they go

"I have a theory of my own that with the improved sanitary conditions, more skilled doctors and the weakening of the disease germs, yellow fever will ultimately be nothing more serious than an ordinary malarial fever is now."

Situation on Island.

New York, September 8 .- Consul General New York, September 8.—Consul General Fitzhugh Lee, accompanied by his son, Fitzhugh Lee, Jr., arrived from Havana on board the Seaguaranca today. The general said that he had been suffering from billiouses for the consultance of the consult billousness for some time past, but he felt very much better after the sea trip. When asked as to whether he would return to Cuba or not the general shook his head and said: "I cannot answer that and I would rather not talk on Cuban affairs until I make my report in Washington."

In speaking of the case of Evangeline

Cisneros, the general said: "The young woman is now confined in Casa Recohidas. She has never been tried, Casa Recohidas. She has never been tried, and I do not think that it was ever intended that she should be banished. The stories of her ill treatment are very much exaggerated and were it not for the hubbub which has been raised about her the girl would probably have been released long ago. In fact, I was given to understand that her name was on the pardon list. She has comfortable quarters and is treated as well as possible under existing conditions. There is a good deal treated as well as possible under existing conditions. There is a good deal of suffering in Cuba, but the Americans, numbering about 1,400, are being cared for from the fund of $50,000 which was appropriated for that purpose. They receive relief daily and up to the present time about $15,000 has been expended."

the reporter.

"No, I am sorry to say there is not," replied the general, "and there will not be any improvement until the war is ended."

"When will that be, general?"

To this last question General Lee replied in Spanish, a free translation of which is "that is too much for me; I cannot say."

General Lee and young Lee went to West Point today to see his other son, George M., who is at the military academy there, and tomorrow they will leave for Wash-argton.

Among the other passengers on board the Seaguaranca were Robert L. Oliver, United States consul at Merida, Mexico, and George W. Fishback, of this city, who was said to have been sent to Havana on business of the United States government. Mr. Fishback said that his trip to Havana was purely of private business. He stated that there was a great deal of suffering all over Cuba, and that the condition of the people was even worse than when he was there last as secretary to commissioner Calhoun when the latter was investigating the Ruiz case. He saw Miss Cleneros at the Casa Recohidas, and he said the reports regarding her treatment said the reports regarding her treatment were grossly exaggerated; that the young young woman was fairly well treated and did not complain when he was speaking

The Statehouse Officials Stirred by Two Sensations

IS A LIVID CORRESPONDENCE Captain D. G. Purse Demands Personal

This was no joke, but a serious matterone might almost say, a dead serious mat-

The two gentlemen have been exchanging Bold correspondence for two weeks or more, and the subject has reached the point where it must either be dropped or there must be a fight. .

It was reported during the afternoon that the secretary had left for Sandbar ferry, but it developed later that his absence from the office was accounted for by his presence at the wedding at the executive mansion. The present complication grew out of some cases which Captain Purse had before the commission. Back in July Captain Purse got Chairman L. N. Trammell, of the railroad commission, to dictate an order setting a date for the cotton rate case. Mr. Massey wrote out the order and by the chairman's authority signed Colonel Trammell's name to it. Captain Purse took the order to the Postal Telegraph Company and sent it to The Savannah Press. A few days later The Press sent Chairman Trammell a bill for $4. The chairman did not understand and asked for an explanation. Then Editor Stovall sent him a copy of the paper, when for the first time Colonel Trammell read what had been published over his signature. The statement was included that some other case brought by Captain Purse would be decided on August 4th. He had not authorized the statement and he had Mr. Massey investigate the matter. Mr. Massey called for the original dispatch on file in the Postal's office, and there he found, so it is claimed, the interpolation.

This information was embodied in a written report to Chairman Trammelt. The latter sent it to Captain Purse, asking for an explanation. Then the captain came back at Mr. Massey and demanded the authority for fixing the responsibility for altering the order on him. Mr. Massey referred Captain Purse to Mr. Scattergood, the Postal's manager. This did not satisfy the commissioner of the Savannah bureau of freight and transportation and he wrote back demanding personal satisfaction of the commissolver's secretary. The reply to this was a very short declination to make any further statement about the matter. That letter should have reached Savannah yesterday morning. Hence the apprehension.

The damage was more than at first expected as the contents of the buildings could not be readily ascerained. The greatest loss will be to Mr. E. H. Their kerosene tanks were very near to where the fire first broke out and they were moved just in time to save them from being caught in the conflagration, which had they caught would have probably burned the entire block. A number of buildings were caught, but liftle damage was done in this way. The burned portion of the town will be immediately rebuilt with handsomer and more substantial structures. No one was hurt by the fire.

ty jury, and they were not swenty minutes in bringing a verdict in Mr. Lee's favor. Curry Sticks to It.

In speaking further of the matter, Mr. Lee severely attacks Mr. Curry and says the only part of the latter's statement that is true was that he did once work misdemeanor convicts on his farm in Newton county. This, continues Mr. Lee, was sanctioned by the county authorities, but when the questions of illegality were agitated he discontinued the business just as soon as he could arrange to do so. Mr. Lee says he has been out of the business for more than twenty months, and that while in it no camp was ever conducted on more humane principles than his. In ten years he never had one of his convicts to die or to suffer from serious illness. He fed, clothed and protected them and met every requirement of humanity. He says he has lived in Newton county fifty years and refers to the people of that county as to his good standing as a law-abiding citizen. He says that if he was now offer ed the best one thousand acres of land in Newton county and compelled to work it with misdemeanor convicts, furnished him free of cost, he would decline with thanks, Attorney Frank Z. Curry was in the city yesterday, and in reference to his statements to the governor concerning the charges made against the management of the Lee camp, he says that the whole matter will come up again before the superior court of Newton county, when it will be fully ventilated. He does not care to discuss the matter now further than to say that when the suit was tried a year ago, resulting in a verdict in favor of Mr. Lee. the defendant, a new trial was promptly granted by the judge on the plea that the verdict was contrary to the evidence. Mr. Curry says the next trial of the suit will establish the truth of all the claims made

Clarke County Reformers.

The county of Clarke will within a few days have her fourteen misdemeanor convicts behind the jail bars. Judge N. L. Hutchins, judge of the superior courts of the Western circuit, and Judge Howell Cobb, judge of the city court of Athens, have notified Ordinary Herrington to call in the misdeneanor convicts at once.

Judge Herrington, while not in sympathy with the movement, will obey the order and the convicts will be sent for and put in the county jail. The lessees of the Clarke county convicts are Mattox and Hudgins, of Elbert county. Inspector Byrd, in making out his report on that camp says it is exceptionally clean and well kept and the convicts are treated all right.

Mr. Hudgins was in Athens today and said it would work a great hardship on him to give the convicts up just now: that his crops were ready to be gathered in and he could not obtain other labor to do the Ordinary Herrington recognizes the law in the case, as do the other county officers, but he thinks a little time should be allowed Clarke county to get ready to untilize the convicts, especially as the report of Commissioner Byrd says the camp of Mattox and Hudgins is all right. Judge Cobb, of the city court, is willing to allow the county until October 1st to get ready for taking the convicts back, if Judge Hutchins is willing. The following circular letter was prepared and sent out by Judge Sweat at Waycross yesterday to the ordinaries and county commissioners of the Brunswick circuit: "Dear Sir-Under instructions which I have sent out, thirty days from the 6th instant have been given to the private lesses of misdemeanor convicts in which to surrender them to county authorities. write to suggest that in my opinion it will be wise for each county to organize a chaingang, keep its convicts in the county jail at night, work them during the day on various public roads leading out in every direction from the county site, until they are straigthened, widened and graded a distance of several miles, and then provide a stockade in the country from which they can be worked and the roads extended. "It would also be well, perhaps, for county authorities to purchase or lease suitable farms centrally located on which county poorhouses could be located, and where permanent stockades could be built for the safekeeping of convicts when not at work on public roads, and where they could be employed from time to time in cultivating farms for the support of both convicts and county paupers. This would work great savings to counties in the matter of expense, both as to disposing of convicts and as to the maintenance of county paupers. Until county chaingangs are organized or some such plan is adopted, as suggested, county authorities may turn their convicts over to town or city chaingangs, or public chaingangs of other counties to be worked upon such terms as may be agreed upon."

The Terrell County Case.

The Constitution has already made correction of a misstatement which appeared in these columns concerning the case of the negro Jim Miller, of Terrell county, which was tried before Judge Sheffleld on habeas corpus proceedings brought by the wellknown law firm of Yeomans & Raines, of Dawson, but so much inquiry has been made concerning it that the facts in the case are repeated. Miller was a convict, leased by the Terrell county authorities to a private con-

who ordered the sheriff of Terrell county to take possession of Miller in accordance with the original sentence of the court and to employ him upon the public works of the county. Subsequently his fine of $50 was paid and he was released. The same law firm has since brought habeas corpus proceedings in the interest of three other convicts, similarly confined, and in each instance their suit has been successful. Former Solicitor Clarence Wilson, of the Pataula circuit, today expressed his views on the convict question in a very emphatic manner to a representative of The Constitution. They deal incisively with the knotty problem and are well worth perusing. Mr. Wilson said:

Mr. Wilson's Views.

"I congratulate The Constitution on giv-ing such impetus to the agitation of the convict lease discussion. The report of Inspector Byrd was but a confirmation of the views and belief of a large number of the people of this state as to the condition of a large number of the camps throughout the state. It is occasion for much rejoicing that the chairman and members of the penitentiary committee have ex-pressed a determination to deal in a prac-"The difficulties that seriously confronted former legislatures, in dealing with this question, are now happily at an end by the near approach of the time when the lease expires by operation of law.

"The most serious problem that will con front the next session of the legislature will be the inauguration of a convict law in lieu of the present system that will meet the necessities of the occasion.

In my opinion the best solution of the difficulties with which any system will be more or less environed is that furnished by Hon. J. L. Boynton, the present mem-ber from Calhoun. The argument of those who contend that convicts should be organized into squads and employed upon the public highways of the state is met by the (too many) very conclusive objection that it will necessarily involve are outlay of money that will be entirely too ourdensome to the taxpayers of the state.

"The plan outlined by Mr. Boynton is o purchase farms in different sections of he state upon which at least short term and misdemeanor convicts may be worked, and that the surplus of the earnings of the various farms may be applied to the support of the lunatic asylum and eleemosynary institutions, now maintained at a very heavy expense by the

'In this way the labor of the convicts does not come into competition with the free labor of the citizens of Georgia. "If the expenses of a whole or a part of these institutions can be met with a sum derived from this source, how infinitely better to the overburdened taxpayers to be thus relieved of the payment of these large annual appropriations.

"As to the number and topographical location of these farms, why that is a mere question of detail. The burning question of the hour is, to supplant the present disgraceful and inhuman system with one more in accord with the spirit and genius of our Christian civilization. "If the report of Inspector Byrd is not

overdrawn (and we have every reason to believe that it is not) then the condition of some of the camps in this state is a standing disgrace to the civilization of the state, and any law or system that makes possible a further continuation of the barbarities practiced should be repealed or abolished at the earliest oppor-

"With a governor showing an unflinching determination to see that the wrongs of these unfortunates are speedily righted, and with the settled conviction in the minds of the entire citizenship of the state, that reforms are imperative, we feel as-sured that the next session of the legislature will be marked by a wise solution of this most vexed question, and that the stain of this most iniquitous system will have been forever removed from Georgia's

WILL SEE THE CITY IN A TROLLEY CAR | WAS SOLD TO A CITIZEN OF MELDRIM

This Morning.

The Races Tonight Will Be the Greatest of the Season-Records May Be Smashed.

Tonight will be Zimmerman night at the coliseum bicycle races. The great rider will reach the city at 11:40 this morning. He will be met at the depot by a delega-tion of the local wheelmen and visiting racing men and taken for a trolley ride over the city. With music on the car, "Zimmy" will be shown the city before going to lunch. About 3:30 he will be taken out for a practice spin on the coliseum track. Z'mmerman is a rider of so much experience that he can ride on any track, so it will take him but about three laps to become familiar with the curves.

After Zimmerman has had his practice and rub down, he will rest till evening, when he will try his wonderful speed on the track behind the fastest tandems that can be found in the city. In his trial against time in the mile Zimmerman will be paced by three tandems. Each tandem will go three laps, so they can make the pace pretty lively. One tandem will be ridden by Foote and Tatum, the regular tandem team. On another tandem will be Kendall Spear and R. Walthour, and on the last tandem, which will probably pace the last two laps, will be that really wenderful team, Elliott and Kline. These two young professionals have proven them-selves to be the fastest tandem team that ever rode in the south, and if Zimmy will stick to them he will doubtless surprise himself with the speed he will make. With three such teams of pacemakers and on such a fast track, the mile ought to be made very close to 1:50. He will also run in an exhibition half-mile, which will undoubtedly be faster than any half-mile ever made in the south. Zimmerman is not in competition races this year because he has had too many other things to do. He has made a fortune in the racing business and is a wealthy man. But he has a longing to be back to the track, and has announced that he will be ready to meet any rider in the world next season. He says he can get in shape again, and if he can equal next year what he has been as a rider, he will not meet many who can ride as fast as he can. He has what is admitted by all riders to be the quickest and fastest spurt of any rider on the race track, and this with the head work that he puts into a race has enabled him to beat all the riders not only in this country, but in the world, for all of the French and English champions have seen Zimmy's rear wheel in more than one race. He is not only the best rider in the world but he is the most graceful, and is considered to have the best position on a wheel of any man that ever pushed a pedal. It is a regular expression among all wheel-men the world over to say "as graceful as

Bob Walthour, Repine, Chapman, Winesett, Weinig and Elliott will be among the stars who will have many backers to win out. There are a great many people who think that Chap-man can beat Walthour. There are many others who think that either Repine or Elliott can do the same thing and they are all going to try and do it tonight. An old rider who is on to the game said ast night: "I think the race Thursday between the professionals will be the race of the season. There will be some pretty work in it, and it may not be the speediest man that will win, but the man with the best head, and the man who gets the most The majority of those who keep up with the races think that Walthour will win, and bets were even on him against the field last

But It Is Intimated That It Was Purchased for the Central Railroad Company.

Savarnah, Ga., September 18 .- (Special.)-There is much mystery surrounding the purchase of the Cuyler and Woodburr railroad, a small line in Bryan county, conecting with the Georgia and Alabama affread. It was put up at auction the other day and sold to W. F. Carter, of Meldrim. Who Mr. Carter represents, however, he would not say. The presumption is it has been bought for the Central of Georgia Railway Company, and that it will be used in connection with the Bruton and Pincora railroad, formerly the Atlantic Short Line, in making the cut off which the Central has had in contemplation for some time, and by which the route between Savannah and Macon will be shortened by thirty miles. The road was sold out under a judgment in favor of the Anniston National bank, which held about 80 per cent of the bonds, and brought $27,666, which is about onethird of the bank's claim. It has been intimated for some time that the Central would secure it and use it as a connecting line, and it is believed now that this has been settled.

The cut-off was first announced in The Constitution, and it is known that active arrangements are now in progress for the ourpose of completing the short route at an early date.

It was intimated also that Major P. W. Meldrim was the purchaser of the road, but there is no evidence that this was the

FREE TO EVERY MAN. The Method of a Great Treatment Which Cured Him After Everything Else Failed.

Painful diseases are bad enough, but when

Painful diseases are bad enough, but when a man is slowly wasting away with nervous weakness, the mental forebodings are ten times worse than the most severe pain. There is no let-up to the mental suffering day or night. Sleep is almost impossible and under such a strain men are scarcely responsible for what they do. For years the writer rolled and tossed on the troubled sea of sexual weakness until it was a question whether he had not better take a dose of poison and thus end all his troubles. But providential inspiration came to his aid in the shape of a combination of medicines that not only completely restored the general health, but enlarged his weak, emaciated parts to natural size and vigor, and he now declares that any man who will take the trouble to send his name and address may have the method of this wonderful treatment free. Now when I say free I want every weakned man to get the benefit of my experience.

I am not a philanthropist, nor do I pose as an enthusitest, but there are thousands of men suffering the mental tortures of weakned manhood who would be cured at once could they but get such a remedy as the one that cured me. Do not try to study out how I can afford to pay the few postage stamps necessary to mail the information, but send for it, and learn that there are a few things on earth that althguigh they cost nothing to get they are worth a fortune to some men and mean a lifetime of happiness to most of us. Write to Thomas Slater, Box 125, Kalamazoo, Mich., and the information will be mailed in a plain, sealed envelope.

ATLANTA, GA., September 9, 1897.

The Beginning of the End.

The judges of the courts and the authorities of the counties are moving with commendable zeal, under the suggestion of Governor Atkinson, to enforce the law concerning misdemeanor convicts and to abolish the illegal private camps. The governor has acted in the matter with characteristic zeal and vigor, and the wholesome results which his action is sure to bring about will redound to the lasting credit of his administration. He has given renewed life to a law that has been a dead letter in half the counties of the state, and has given the public to understand that violations of the law by those who are chosen to enforce them are not to be tolerated in Georgia.

And though the county authorities and judges are acting promptly in abolishing the private camps, none of the prisoners except those whose sentences have expired or whose fines have been paid have been "turned loose" or "dumped" upon the unprotected people of the rural communities.

There seems to be a very earnest desire on the part of the counties to get rid of the incubus of the private camps -the shameful story of some of which is related in Special Inspector Byrd's re- friends. port. They seem, indeed, to have been waiting for some excuse to break up the illegal system. This they have found in the firm attitude and vigorous action of the governor.

The Constitution sincerely hopes that the chief executive and the intelligent press of the state will never have cccasion hereafter to urge upon the officers of the law the necessity of enforcing the law. We trust that the newspapers of the state will never hereafter find it necessary to argue in favor of the prompt abolition of a system established in open and clear violation of a law mandatory in its character. We repeat that the peace and safety of the state depend entirely on the respect which the people entertain and exhibit for the law. The surest and completest way to break down and destroy this popular respect for law and authority is for the officers of the law themselves openly and boldly to disregard

What has been done has been in the interest of false ideas of economy. Circumstances are such that any county in the state may lawfully lease its misdemeanor convicts to other counties: but even if this were not so and these prisoners were a dead expense to the counties, it would be better for the people and better for the interests of our social organization that the taxpayers should be doubly taxed rather than the law should be violated.

Once give the public contempt for the power and potency of the law (even of a bad law) and there you have all the elements of demoralization and disorganization.

Within a very short time, the last re mains of this disgrace to Georgia will be buried deeply out of sight, and it may be safely said that such a condition of affairs will never again be tolerated within the borders of the commonwealth.

Public sentiment is in motion and the appeal for action RIGHT NOW-is receiving gratifying response.

Let the Lesson Be Heeded.

The execution of H. S. Perry, which occurred yesterday in DeKalb county. teaches a lesson and conveys a moral which we trust will be widely heeded in Georgia. It marks the beginning (we take leave to hope) of a serious reform in the administration of justice in this return to the methods which brought peace and comparative safety to the people, and compelled the masses to respect the law and to have a wholedread of the effects of its viola-heart bleed with pity. But he has allowed the law to take its course, and he has not permitted himself to be turned aside from his duty.

We congratulate Governor Atkinson on the firm stand which he took in this case. A tremendous pressure has witness scenes calculated to make his mium.

The Constitution is not insensible to the sad, the pathetic features of this case. The hearts of all must go out in sympathy and in pity to the poor wife and the little children left behind, whose home and hearth have been made desolate. But those who regard the widow and the orphans with the truest pity are compelled to revert to the real cause of their suffering. They are not the vic tims of the law. The governor, the judge and the jury have not brought their misfortunes upon them. They are the innocent victims of the man who violated the law by murdering his fel-

So far-reaching and vicious is the rehand of crime that it tears the hearts and always the happiness of the inno cent and the helpless. It is all the more important therefore that an end should be put to all such crimes in Georgia. Let every court official now and hereafter determine that justice shall lay her firm and unrelenting hand on all who attack society by offending the majesty of the law.

Let the fate of Perry stand as a warning to evil-doers. Let the bloodthirsty and the evil-minded clearly understand that whoever commits unprovoked murder shall die upon the gallows; that whoever violates the law, even in the smallest particular, shall be punished, and then we shall enter upon a new era of peace and good order in this state, We shall have fewer lynchings, fewer incentives to mob violence and fewer criminals. Those who dread the law are

A Call Upon Atlanta.

In another column President T. B Neal, of the chamber of commerce, presents in a graphic and striking manner the necessity of Atlanta's awakening to the importance of the protec tion of her commercial interests.

The full crops which providence has vouchsafed the country have inspired people with a confidence that business will revive, and in anticipation of it nearly all the great cities of the country have organized for the purpose of reaping the fruits thereof. Far distant citles are reaching out by various devices into the trade territory of their rivals.

In the general movement of energy and aggressiveness Atlanta alone seems to be taking no part. This must stop, and it is incumbent upon the business men of Atlanta to maintain the prestige of the city by exhibiting that aggressiveness and enterprise which have always been characteristic of our history. President Neal urges that the business men of Atlanta take this subject into consideration, so that at the meeting which he will call in a day or two, they may be prepared to give the benefit of their study as well as the support of their pocket.

The case is urgent, and President Near has stated it none too strongly. We trade by other cities. Every business cannot afford to stand still while our rivals are striking into our territory and carrying its trade away. We must not only maintain what we have won, but we must go into the field adopting the same plans which we have employed hitherto, so that in the reaping of results we may have our full share.

The Constitution stands ready to further the effort which President Neal is making, and to stir up Atlanta to a sense of what should be done.

General Isaac W. Avery. The death of General Isaac W. Avery

sion as general of brigade on its way to him when the war closed. He took up active life when peace was declared and became prominent as a journalist. From journalism he drift ed into commercial discussion and took a leading part in the direct trade movement, which is now culminating with

Taken all in all, General Avery was a genial, gallant gentleman, a brave soldier and a worthy citizen, whose name will long be treasured.

A dispatch from the City of Mexico recently appeared in some of the gold organs under the heading of "Mexico's Silver Crisis." A reading of the dispatch, however, showed that the "crisis" was altogether in the headline. The facts, as set forth, showed that the big merchants and importers of the state of Sonora held a meeting for the purpose of taking measures to protect themselves against the results of the heavily increased premium on gold-for in Mexico gold has risen and silver has re-

The matter was very simple, as the dispatch showed. At the meeting "it was agreed to countermand, as far as possible, all foreign orders payable in gold, and the merchants pledged themselves to substitute goods of home manufacture for imported goods." This is the nature and extent of the "crisis." It simply means a substantial increase in the remarkable prosperity which manufacturing in Mexico has enjoyed since gold began to command a premium in that country. This prosperity of manufacturing has increased as the gold premium grew larger, and, as a consequence, millions of foreign gold have been invested in that country, especially during the past five years. So that e intelligent observer has had an opportunity, during that time, to witnes the interesting spectacle of remarkable industrial and commercial activity ou one side of the Rio Grande, and the deepest and most disheartening depression on the other side—all because the law in the one country has made money more valuable than commodities, while it has made commodities more valuable than money in the other.

It is easy to imagine what the action of the merchants in the state of Sonora means. Suppose the merchants of Atlanta were to meet and pledge themselves to give the preference manufactured in this city-and there are hundreds of articles produced herewhat would happen? Why the happiest effects would follow. natural and artificial protection in operation. Money made here would be spent here; local prosperity would invite a thousand new investments, and should have a happy condition of affairs in which all interests and all individuals would participate. Now this is precisely what is going been brought to bear on him, and he has been compelled to hear appeals and of protection afforded by the gold prefered by natural conditions to every industrial enterprise in that country cotton mills of Mexico (though they had to pay 14 to 16 cents pound for American cotton) paid dividends three or four times as large as the American mills.

If this constitutes a "crisis," we should doorbe delighted to see it spread its wings over this country.

A Harsh Criticism

The only discordant note in the chorus of friendly comment evoked from the newspapers of the country by the recent observance of Labor Day in the various states of the union emanates from The Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

Strange to say, The Evening Telegraph sees nothing whatever to commend in the observance of Labor Day; but on the contrary, much to condemn, In discussing the matter editorially the Philadelphia paper goes so far as to de-"the invention of politicians, due to a strained competition for favor with the labor organizations." In this same caustic strain The Telegraph pro ceeds:

It is a socialistic attempt to establish ar observance which can in fact only be val-idly maintained when it springs spontane-ously from popular requirements and re-flects popular sentiments or popular needs. An autumnal festival after the ingathering of the harvest has been common with all agricultural peoples, and observances like the English harvest home and the German kanstatter are legitimate and may eventually be adopted in some form by our agricultural population. Labor Day, however, has not this sanction, and in all probability never will have it. It is the day of the politician, the demagogue and the agitator, and to the great mass of wage-earners the suspension of work on this pseudo-holiday is simply an embarrassment and a nuisance Labor Day has been adopted by thirty-seven states of the union, including the state of Pennsylvania. Judging from the growing popularity which has heretofore attached to the observance of Labor Day it is safe to predict that within the next few years its adoption will be universal throughout the union. In doing honor to its industrious and patriotic laboring men, the country does honor to its own sense of right and justice, and lends a helping hand to one of the most deserving elements of our citizenship.

NEGRO ATTACKS ATHENS LADIES Struck Them Heavy Blows as He Was Passing.

Athers, Ga., September 8 .- (Special.)-Just before dusk this afternoon, Miss Lida Hunnicutt, daughter of Professor J. B. Hunnicutt, and Miss Lyle were walking along Hull street, near Milledge avenue. No one was in sight except a negro man, who was coming toward them.

They saw he was not going to give them any of the sidewalk, and they stepped aside for him to pass. As he passed, he deliberately drew back his fist and struck Miss Hunnicutt a heavy blow. He ran around the corner of Church street and two blocks further on met Miss Leida McMahan, aughter of Mayor McMaHan, and Miss Florence McMahan, a niece of the mayor. The negro repeated his conduct and struck Miss Florence McMahan. He went on a little further and tried to stop the Misses Barwick, who were riding along the street on bicycles. Then he turned around and started back toward the young ladies, who ran out of his reach. He then disappeared. The police have been searching for the negro for hours. They do not know his name, but have a good description. The young ladies say the negro was not drunk nd say they will be able to positively identify him if he is caught. If the negro is not caught by morning, the citizens will organize a posse and hunt for him. If he is caught there may be trouble ahead, as the indignation of the people is great.

MEN AND MATTERS.

C. F. Bane, the marble man of Tate formerly from Chicago, but whose house is now built upon a rock in north Georgia, believes that as a building material Georgia stone has a vast future. He came down yesterday and will be here for several days. F. H. Wright, of the same place, is in Atlanta. The works in Tate have just completed the contract for the marble of the postoffice and custom house at Savannah, which is to be one of the most striking federal buildings in the south. Special orders have just been received from Troy, N. Y., and many other large places. During the past year many notable buildings have gone up out of Georgia marble and among them have been Corcoran art gallery, at Washington, D. C. St. Luke's hospital, in New York, and the state capitol building in Providence, R. I. The most signal triumph recently made for the marble of this state, however, is the contract for the building of the state capitol of Minnesota, and this contract, by the way, was given to an Atlanta man after a hand to hand struggle with marble companies an over the world. But Georgia stone came out in the lead. The state commission had appropriated $2,000,000 for the erection of the state capitol, but a certain amount of this had been expended and there remained only $696,000 with which to complete the work. The bid for furnishing the marble had to come in this figure, according to the mandate of the governor. Everything considered, after thorough in-spection, it was decided to select the Georgla stone. Mr. Cass Guilbert, the supervising architect, made visits to all the large quarries in Minnesota and made chemical and physical tests of all the samples of marble brought before him, but over 'a.l these the Georgia stone triumphed. In making his formal report on the inspection, Mr. Guilbert, after summing up the qualities of the Georgia marble, said: "In short, it is the same material as the Pantelic marble, of Athens, which has been use over 2,000 years.' Both Mr. Bane and Mr. Wright are greatly encouraged over the Georgia stone and talk enthusiastically of the possibilities of this state in that line.

Speaking of possibilities, hits and lucky strikes, calls up the book, "In God's Country," by Dolly Higbee Geppert, of Atlanta. It is a good way removed from the marble work of north Georgia, but its success will be just as lasting, for the dramatization of the book under the title of "A Southern Romance," has made the biggest hit of the season in New York. Here is what The New York Journal has to say about it:

about it:

"Some years ago Dora Higbee wrote a novel called 'In God's Country,' and sold it to Belford, Clark & Co., who published it in Belford's Magazine, and afterwards brought it out in the form of a paper-covered volume. The story, although an excellent one in many respects, made very little of a ripple in the literary millpond, and would probably never have been heard of again had it not been used as the basis of the play 'A Southern Romance,' now current at the Fifth Avenue theater. This has already created such addemand for it that every bookseller in New York has received during the protoringht a dozen or more inquiries. formight a dozen or more inquiries for it, and it is not improbable that some publisher will find it worth his while to bring out a new edition of a story that possesses undoubted merit. It is a well-known fact that 'Looking Backward' did not become accordance to the control of the control not become a popular success until the plates from which it was printed had been sold as part of a job lot to a second firm of publishers, and it was they who made the profit from the enormous demand that sprang up more than a year after the book was first issued."

The board of trustees of the Georgia Normal and Industrial college at Milledgeville will hold their regular session here in the state capitol. The meeting will be of unusual importance. Hon. Fleming duBignon, Colonel Pat Walsh, Captain F. Newell, Color el R. N. Lamar and Messrs. Davis and Dupree, with Governor Atkinson, will all be here it is expected. prospects for the college are unusually bright, and the record of applications for admittance is phenomenal. The school mitery boarders, 45 boarders in private families and 32 local pupils to start off with. Because of the lack or dormltory rcom, President Chappell has been forced to turn down the applications of over 150 young ladies. John M. Egan, of the Central road, who, by the way, is one of the most popular railroad men in the south, came up from Savannah yesterday and took a day off with his Atlanta friends, in the meantime looking after a good amount of business. A funny accident occurred yes-terday just as Mr. Eagan stepped from the Kimball house. A well-dressed man stepped up and grabbed his hand ferociously and an to wring it with fervid greeting. Howdy, judge; how are you?" M Egan replied that he was better than ordinary, but lifted his eyes in wonderment at the new title given him. The stranger continued to address him as "judge," and began to ask about the disposition of the convict question in Chatham. It was then that it dawned upon the railroad that he had been taken for Judge Falligant. ATLANTA TO MOVE FOR BUSINESS

President Neal, of the Chamber of Commerce, Talks.

THE BUSINESS MEN MUST ACT

They Are Urged To Give the Benefit of Their Thought at a Public Meeting.

IF THE CHAMBER IS It Will Go Actively Into the Work of Rousing Up the Old Atlanta Spirit and Putting City Forward. President T. B. Neal, of the Atlanta chamber of commerce, proposes to call a meeting of the business men of the city for the purpose of taking action toward bringing merchants of other cities here and for otherwise extending Atlanta's trade. In the revival of business which over flowing crops have brought to the country the cities of the union are moving. New York, with that foresight which has been ever characteristic of her mercantile community, moves first to check the inroads of the metropolitan cities of the west and to bring back within her commercial dominion that rich territory of trade which had been wrenched from her by Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis. These cities which had been thus attacked took up the fight, in which they were soon joined by others of lesser proportion throughout the length and breadth of the union. New York's example in drawing the attention of the people to the fact that the time had come for action to become general, and in the newspapers of the entire country may be read the movement of boards of trade, chambers of commerce and other commercial bodies. It has been stated that in a single week New York's business gained $20,000,000 from these solicited sources. What is true of that city is true in some degree of all cities.

What Is Atlanta Doing. While this general jubilation is in progress our merchants seem to have been caught unawares. They have talked, they have argued; they have looked on with suspicion, but in the meantime they have been treated to the sight of their old customers stopping over in the city a day on their way to the great cities of the north, intent upon laying in their supplies.

For a moment the commercial pulse of the city was stirred up, and a few wholesale men met to resolve upon some action What has been the outcome of that meeting is as yet hard to say. It seems, however, to have crystalized the view that Atlanta must pull her loins together and prepare for the commercial fray. We have still here the same old red hills which our comrades of thirty years ago found inviting their attention. We have still the same Atlanta. We have the memory of the spirit displayed by that Atlanta, but do we possess the spirit ourselves? That is the question which forces itself to the front and to which an answer must be given, and given at once. President Neal Talks.

In the meeting already aliuded to discussion was made of the proper agencies through which the work should be inqueurated. It was evident to all that in all matters in which Atlanta had to deal with outside influences, it should be the united Atlanta. The wholesale man, the retail man, the manufacturer, the repairer, the rich, the poor, all bound together in that magnificent combination which has so often thrilled the country and drawn vicory out of adverse circumstances. The chamber of commerce evidently was the body which should take up such matters. At the time Captain T. B. Neal, president of that body, was absent, but upon his return to this city he has given this matter close and earnest attention. He recognizes the necessity for action and for union, and the fact that the cause of one interest is the cause of all because after all cur varied interests are so bound together that were the one to fail all would languish. "I recognize," said President Neal, "the fact that Atlanta must act, and for that purpose I suggest a general business men's meeting, where we may once more hear the ringing words of Atlanta, which so thrilled

the masses, 'all for Atlanta, and Atlanta for us all,' I have observed the organized efforts which have been made from the east and the west and in various parts of the south to induce merchants to visit their cities and to form new trade relations. It must be evident to every Atlanta man that our rivals are awake and that to meet them we must arouse from our sluggishness and show to the world that we will maintain that grand standard which has been so nobly won. A Call for Consultation.

"At this meeting I want to hear these subjects discussed by our business men, and preceding its calling I hope that they will talk it over and form conclusions which can be brought into shape. Then when our people are ripe for a strictly business campaign-and Atlantians always are -I will call a meeting at which Atlanta's e ndition may be discussed and where we may adopt the best means to place curselves in line to combat with any city in

"In discussing this subject." continued President Neal, "we must remember that we cannot obtain all the advantages to which we are entitled except by a thorough and compact organization. For this purpose I want that public meeting of business men to express the wish whether the chamber of commerce offers the necessary nucleus for a large and strong organization. A know that the active support of the chamber will be given any other or ganization if it is thought necessary to take that course. The officers and leaders of the chamber are ready to do all in their power and to maintain, through an organized body of capable men, every facility and advantage accorded to any other place of equal importance. If, for instance, we are discrinimated against in freights or otherwise let our business men present a solid front and then we can correct it. Let us demand exact justice, remembering to accord that justice which we demand to those with whom we deal.

As to the Chamber of Commerce. "Concerning the chamber of commerce," said President Neal, "something must be said. It is true that it has been quiet, and has made but little effort during the toward the upbuilding of Atlanta, and on striking out for additional trade and ter ritory for our merchants and manufacturers. There has been two main reasons for this seeming lethargy. First, there was that long period of business depression through which we have passed and which did not justify any very active and aggressive movement in this direction. Secondly, and as a consequence of the first ondly, and as a consultant reason, our membership has been iargely reduced and many have not paid their annual dues, and the chamber 1.3s had no money to pay for such expenses as would be involved in an active prosecution of the work to be done. Happily, however, the first obstacle is now fading away, which all can see, and better times are fast approaching. The onward wave, the commerdal unrest which we see all around us is the unrest of the awakening hour. Before the wave of prosperity strikes fully upon the country the question for Atlanta to consider is will we ride upon the wave or will we lie down and be washed over by the breakers? Will you wait and see other rivals taking the leadership which belongs to this city?

Must Be Up to Date. "I am sure that there can be but one opinion among the people of Atlanta. Ev. ery period of business has its special means of development. Business is subject to fads and policies, just as is any other subject coming within human action. It has been determined by the business world that customers must be brought to the center of business, somewhat of a return to the old custom when merchants all went on semi-annual trading tours. We must do as others do, and since they have adopt. ed this policy of reaching out into distant territory by means of railroad transportation and other inducements, we must take the same means. To neglect these means would be to acknowledge deteat Our chamber of commerce has a liberal charter. It embraces every interest in the city. Its committees, representing all interests, can pledge the influence of all united. Such a body as this appealing to railroads or engaging in appressive movement can always accomplish some thing where individuals would fail. The trouble heretofore has been that too many of our merchants were disposed to go it alone, and while they have been able to secure some personal advantages in this way, the city has suffered as a whole, The proper plan is for our committee to go to the railroads, asking no concessions asking no favors, but seeking simply that natural justice to which we are entitled. The railroad men will do their part if treated right and consulted with intelligently. To sum up my ideas I call upon the business men to think and to think earnestly, and in a day or two I will give them the opportunity to come together and to think altogether for Atlanta's good.' President Neal Indorsed.

The remarks of President Neal are to the point and will be heartly applauded by every citizen of Atlanta. The reasons he gives for the stagnation heretofore are the very ones which make pressing the need of action, and when once Atlanta's merchants are stirred up, it is safe to say that they will hold their own and that the result will be safe. Whatever there is in the future the busness men of the city should be prepared for their part of it, and President Neal is to be congratulated on the active and energetic steps he is about to take

PRAYED AND TALKED BEFORE DYING

From under the black cap the voice of Horace S. Perry, the doomed man, was Stephenson had been with Perry constantly since he was in the Fulton county jail, and held a religious meeting at the jail last Sunday afternoon, when Perry himself preached to the other prisoners. Perry was glad to see his spiritual adviser.

A little later Perry's wife, sister, son and father-in-law entered his cell. A few moments afterwards Mr. E. M. Roberts, Mr. Clyde King, Dr. Gray and the Rev. Mr. Cook joined the party who were to be with Perry in his last moments

Until a quarter past 11 o'clock there were singing and praying. Perry himself made a long prayer in which he asked his Maker to forgive him his sins and to take care of his wife and children. He asked the forgiveness of all who had ever wronged him and petitioned for all to one day meet him in heaven.

While the praying and singing were going on a crowd of men and boys pushed up the stairway and tried to see and hear what was taking place through the narrow and barred hole in the jall door. A few minutes after 11 o'clock the sheriff arrived at the jail with a number of special guards armed with winchesters and double-barreled shotguns. They cleared the jail and the yard. Through the door as he passed from the jail door to the gate of the inclosure and their morbid curiosity was probably satisfied. Across from the fail were the smoking ruins of the houses which had been destroyed by fire the night before and one of the burnled buildings was the one in which Lanier, Perry's victim, had died. As Perry walked up the steps to the gallows the smoke blew over his head and blurred the bright, blue sky above.

Unflinchingly and with a nerve that was remarkable Perry walked up the steps. He started toward the trap, but was stopped and told to take a seat in one of the chairs. As he was going up the stairs he saw some one in the crowd whom he knew and he stopped, and shaking hands, said: "Goodby, my friend; may God bless

During the entire ride Perry constantly referred to his approaching fate. Not with fear; but he spoke of it as something that he had made up his mind he had to endure and he was going to do it as bravely as he could.

"that my case has been clearly and properly understood by those who could have saved me. But I have no ill feeling toward them. I have prayed to God to forgive them if they have done me a wrong. Soon, perhaps all too soon to the condemned man, the ride to Decatur was over. It was the last time he would ever look upon the world again, and nature had given him her loveliest and gentlest touches to beautify the panorama which met his

When Decatur was reached he was placed in the cell on the second floor of the jail. His door was left open and he was allowed the freedom of the corridor. "Jesus, lover of my soul, Let me to Thy bosom fly, While the nearer waters roll, While the tempest still is high." The sheriff walked into the cell and the singing ceased.

I feel that although they can take this poor body of mine, they cannot take my soul. I pray to God to protect my family when I am gone. I pray to Him to forgive all who have done me any wrong, and I hope their sins will be blotted out. It will soon all be over. It will be finished, and I will be at home with my God." flitting like white shrouds; then he stood erect and firm. His hands were tled with ropes in front of his body and his feet held together with cords. The noose was taken from where it dangled upon the floor and passed around his neck, with the knot on the left side of his head. Perry's body swayed slightly.

There came another wreath of smoke over the scaffold from the ashes of the horse in which Perry's victim had died. "Are you trusting in the Lord?" asked Mr. Roberts.

"In my God do I trust," was the reply, in a clear and steady voice. The black cap was placed over Perry's head and the sunlight and the blue sky were shut out of his sight forever. Sheriff Austin stepped off the trap and back to a post to which was fastened the cord communicating with the bolt which of the cord and tightened it, when from under the black cap came Perry's voice: "Now, oh, Lord, until Thee I commend my spirit. Forgive all those who have wronged me; forgive me of all my sins, and save my soul, I ask for Christ's sake. Amen."

sustained the trap doors. He caught hold

The Trap Sprung. With a little jerk the sheriff pulled the cord, the bolt slipped from under the trap, the doors fell and Perry dropped seven feet toward the earth.

After he dropped there was not a quiver of the body, not a breath drawn, it looked almost as if he had died before the bolt was sprung. He swung motionless as the physicians, Drs. J. H. Goss and Charles J. Ramsey, took hold of his nands to feel his pulse.

They found a pulsation which appeared to be strong and regular. It was counted and was beating ninety to the minute. Six minutes after the drop had fallen there was still a pulsation of ninety, but it was much weaker. A clammy perspiration came out on the hands.

At ten minutes after he had dropped the pulse was faint and almost imperceptible. 'We think he is dead," said Dr. Goss when Perry had swung ten minutes. Sheriff Austin came forward and exactly thirteen minutes and a half after the drop had fallen Perry was cut down and his body turned over to the undertaker. Wanted Pieces of Rope. As Sheriff Austin cut the rope with his pocket knife on the scaffold above several men made a rush for the dangling rope and began to hack it to pieces for the purpose of getting strands for souvenirs. One man who was under the scaffold and near the dead body looked up and saw the rope fast disappearing. He yelled up through the trap hole:

"Say, give me a piece of that there rore." There was evidently not a favorable re ply, for he ran up the steps, saying as he went:

"I'll show them whether or not they are going to take it all and not give me any of it." A number of men engaged in a scramble for the rope and some of them went off with pieces of it sticking out of their coat pockets as if they were proud of their trophy and wanted everybody to see it. When Perry's body was laid in the coffin the lid was placed over it and fastened down by the undertaker and the sheriff. On the coffin lid there was a plate upon which was inscribed:

"Rest in peace" The glass upon the lid was slided back and the physicians examined the body and pronounced the neck broken. Although there had been a pulsation after the drop had fallen, he was really dead the moment after he fell.

Among those who witnessed the hanging were D. S. Lanier, the father, and D. C. and J. P. C. Lanier, the brothers of the murdered man for whose death Perry was hanged. They were there during the entire time and were among the last to leave the scene. Disposition of the Body.

Mrs. Perry, accompanied by some of her children and a few friends, left Atlanta for Auburn, Jackson county, Georgia, yesterday at noon. The Crime for Which He Suffered.

Exactly eight months to the day after he killed Bely Lanier. Perry was hanged for the murder. The case has been a most in teresting one, and the efforts to save the man from the gallows were earnest and unceasing. Lanier boarded with Perry's family and became so intimate as to call Perry "uncle." Mrs. Perry suspected Perry of going to see women of dissolute character, and asked Lanier to find out if it was so. Lanier ascertained that Perry's habits were not the best in the world and he so told Mrs. Perry. When Perry ascertained this he became very angry, and wrote a letter to Lanier, telling him that he was going to shoot him on sight, if he did not leave Atlanta at once. In this letter not a word was said about any assault upon Mrs. Perry. Lanier answered the letter, saying that he had done nothing that deserved such treatment-certainly nothing that called for his death. Lanier left or tried to leave the city but was overtaken by Perry near Decatur. Before he could shoot Lanier, Perry was arrested. Lanier was also placed under arrest and the two men were taken by a guard to the county courthouse at Decatur. It was while Lanier was under arrest and he, Perry, had been allowed to go free, that Perry pulled a revolver and shot Lanier when his back was turned. To offset this testimony Perry said that Lanier had assaulted his wife and that he killed him to protect his family.

Mrs. Perry, being the wife of the murderer, was not allowed to testify. But it was after the trial that she first said that Lanier had assaulted her, and at that time Perry was convicted. The jury refused to believe the statement of Perry and convicted him of murder without a recommendation to mercy. Perry was sentenced and an appeal was taken to the supreme court. The supreme court sus-tained the decision of the lower court, and Perry was resentenced. Then an effort was made to get the governor to interfere. He made a careful investigation of all the evidence and declined to interfere with the decision of the courts. Mrs. Perry went before the governor and made an earnest and tearful appeal, but he felt forced to let the verdict of the jury stand. Perry never wavered from his statement that he killed Lanier because be assaulted that he killed Dahler because be assaulted his wife. He died with the statement on his lips. To those who are familiar with the history of the case this seems inexplainable. There are few who believe that Lanier assaulted Mrs. Perry, but the question arises: Did Perry ceally believe his wife had been assaulted, and did he believe this at the time he committed the nurder. this at the time he committed the murder Lanier's father has been quoted as say ing, just after Perry was hanged man went to death with a lie on his lips.

Made One of Perry's Ministers Pray for Him.

HIS AWFUL FRIGHT WAS PITIFUL

Rev. Mr. Stephenson Could Hardly Get Away from Him-Gallows Had a Terrible Effect on Him.

While the preparations were being made yesterday for the hanging of Perry, Edwin C. Flanagan, who himself stands in the shadow of the gallows, was wild with fear. He had an idea that the people outside would turn into a mob and hang him along with Perry. As he himself expressed it: The gallows were all ready and the people were clamoring to see him swing; it would save time and trouble if he was hanged then and there.

When the ministers were with Perry, praying and singing, Flanagan walked up and down the jail corridor excited to the highest pitch. He would go to the window and gaze at the gallows: then he would walk to the door and look at the people peeping through the ventilator. At times he would stop short and listen to the noises without. Compared to Flana-gan, Perry was perfectly calm and un-rumed. Finally Flanagan became so frightened that he went into Perry's cell and called to Rev. Mr. Stephenson to come to him. The minister went to the prisoner and asked him what he wanted. "I want you to pray for me," said Flana-gan, his voice husky with fright. "They are going to take me out and hang me with Perry, and I want you to pray for me."

Clung to the Preacher. Mr. Stephenson had to leave Perry for a few minutes and pray with Flanagan. He found it almost impossible to get away from him. Whenever he would cease praying and start to go back to Perry, Flanagan would clutch him and say:
"Don't leave me. Stay here and pray for me some more."

Mr. Stephenson was willing to give Flanagan all the spiritual comfort he could, but was engaged with Perry and had to go to

"Promise me that you will help me and keep them from hanging me if the mob comes after me."

The minister promised to do all he could if such a thing transpired. It was evident that the man wanted temporal help more than he did spiritual consolation. He was thinking about the gallows outside rather than the welfare of his immortal soui. Cowed in His Cell. When the time came to remove Perry

When the time came to remove Perry from the jail to the gallows Flanagan stood in a corner of his cell and quaked with fear. He looked as if he expected the sheriff to take him along too.

When the hanging took place he remained in his cell with his face burled in his hands. In speaking about Fanagan's conduct afterwards Mr. Stephenson said:

"I never saw a man so overcome by fear before. Flanagan was so cowed that I felt sorry for him. I hated to see any one so frightened. He had an idea that because the gallows were all ready the people outside would demand his execution. He said he heard some people at the door say that it would be a good time to hang him, and this completely unnerved him. I prayed with him and did all I could to allay his fear."

If Flanagan keeps in the same spirit and his sentence is carried out, he will make a pitiful spectacle on the gallows.

This store is a-thrill with the early Autumn trade. The grand record of last season is being beautifully smashed: Each day establishes a new precedent. The volume of business already done has never been paralleled during the corresponding period of any preceding September.

Boys' Clothing is a center of intense interest. The new department has fairly jumped into universal popularity. It was planned to open with the scholastic year. The treasuries of our stock added pride and self-respect to many a fortunate school boy when his name was enrolled. Our system is original and without competition. We buy vast quantities of cloth from the mills and manufacture the Clothing at our great factory. That eliminates every in-between profit and insures reliability. We and all our assets are behind every Suit bought here. Our guarantee regarding style, fit, tailoring, finish and price is as sacred and obligatory as any contract we make.

More and more are the men-and boys, too, finding out that this is the safest store in town to buy a Hat. The Autumn styles are ready and we have plumed ourselves to sell more than ever before. If perfect taste, thorough elegance and downright cheapness can give impetus to a department a Hat business will multiply generously.

TRAVELS IN INDIA.

Letter Written by Mrs. Hugh Richardson on a Trip Around the World.

Agra, the city of the great moguls, with bestowed upon it, lay before us. We arrived at midnight, and so enchanting was the moonlight drive from the station outside the walls, we grew impatient for morning to come to show us the treasures Inside. Again Laurie's Great Northern hoour temporary home (he has some eight or too in northern India), and at breakfast we met some pleasant ac-Drive to Tai Mahal first." we said, for we were anxious to see that most beautiful miles brought us to the tomb, built on the bank of the river, and entering the raptured, upon that exquisite poem in mar-ble. A long row of fountains, bordered by rare tropical plants, with spacious flagstone walks on each side, led from the gate to the building, and mounting the steps we stood on the spacious marble portice, about one hundred and fifty feet At the corners rise graceful min arets and in the center stands the beautiful memorial of Shah Jehan, built to his favorite wife. The central part is sur-mounted by a huge dome and the wings, not quite so high, have smaller ones. The facade is an exquisitely carved arch, in-laid with precious stones and the windows are carved screens, throwing a soft light inside. Directly under the dome is the monument to the queen, inclosed by an octagonal screen of marble, exquisitely carved, while below in the crypt is her tomb. The indescribable beauty of this, the most celebrated work of the infidel things, causes one to wish that the moslem still held sway and would continue the erection of such splendid buildings to en-rapture the beauty loving traveler. The east side of the Taj is a small mosque, for good Mohammedans need pray many times a day. The cost of this marble tomb was 31,000,000 rupees, or about $10,-000,000, and it took 20,000 men seventeen years to build it. walled city of Agra, which was the capital of Oudh before it was moved to Delhi and which contained the palaces, mosques and audience halls of the king, is now quite deserted, except for the goving the moat, now dry, being much lower than the inner. Then comes the second with deep indentations on top and at irregular distances great round towers. through the great gate we visited in their order the pearl mosque, the palace and council halls, the throne rooms and harems, now all vacant, but recalling tales as romantic as the Alhambra of Granada. In a trellised balcony to the palace, overhanging the river, the greatest of the mo-guls, Shah Jehan, used to sit and gaze upon the Taj across the river, where his beloved queen lay buried, and there reclining on his luxurious oriental cushions and fanned by his slaves, he breathed his last Instead of going into the first mosque we saw in eastern India, where Mohammedanism is second to Brahamism, we waited until we reached that part of the country where the followers of Islam have full sway, and where some of the mosques are pictures of perfect purity in their sublim simplicity. And this little pearl mosque the gem of the vast number, is nothing more than a square building of marble, one side entirely open, the exquisitely carved arches supported by slender, graceful columns and all surmounted by a dome Domes everywhere, huge and glittering in the brilliant sunlight, the specialty of Mo-hammedanism architecture. The study of the religion that has so many followers in India has greatly interested me; how the caravan driver retired into seclusion and there was inspired so that he produced the code of laws that has influenced so many millions. They wor-ship the true God and in many respects r belief does not differ from Christian Mohammed did not attempt to giv new religion, but to restore that which God gave Himself in the earliest times The Koran says, "We believe in God and that which has been sent down to us, and that which has been sent down unto Abraham and Ishmael, and Isaac and Jacob and the tribes, and that which was delivered unto Moses and Jesus, and that which was delivered unto the prophets from the Lord; we make no distinction between any of them and to God we are resigned." They hold the name of Christ in great reverence, and whoever blasphemes it is punished. Many of the tecchings, as "do unto another as thou wouldst he should do unto thee," have similar passages in the scriptures. Paith and practice are the two great essentials and are so plainly laid down that no be-liever need fail in his duty. Prayers must be said five times a day at certain hours, and oftener if there is reason or it. We saw numbers of men kneeling in the streets or parks praying for rain, no doubt, as the feerful famine was upon them. Ablutions strictly enjoined as preparatory to pray and one would expect to see a very cleanly nation, but instead filth is everywhere, and as one person remarked: "Layers of dirt are so thick on a man until you can tell precepts as they do this I think they do not deserve the name of "true believer." Then they make pilgrimages to Mecca and coming home, have distinction shown them that ordinary mortals have not. Their be-lief in after life is very strong, and in heaven the faithful will be fully satisfied, dwelling in sumptuous apartments and at-tended by the houris. For the unbeliever all the torments of hell are waiting. I talked with several Mohammedans and found in them the greatest faith and devoutness, and 'tis exceedingly difficult to make a convert to Christic nity out of them. Soon after the erection of so many beau-tiful buildings in Agra, the capital was moved from there to Delhi, which is one of the most ancient cities in the world. Seven different walled cities have been one after another, until the ruins extend for many miles. The present city is the one connected with the mutiny and has many points of sad interest. The palaces and morgues here are very beautiful, and the native shops attracted us more than any place in India.

On a very wide street with rows of trees through the middle are the principal shops, where one can find the most varied and gorgeous assortments of all the oriental wares and stuffs. Delhi is headquarters for jewelry and the gaudiness of the combinanecklaces and bracelets worn by the na-tive aristocracy are very elaborate, and they dress in the most costly raiment. Here journeyed. Here not a white man lives, even the hotel is kept by a native and I and considerable feeling of fear. The two broad streets leading from the center of the city to the walls cut the city into four squares, and the houses are of pink plaster, with very small latticed windows. Through the streets elephants and tigers walked, and monkeys were thoroughly at home in the trees. By applying to the rajah travelers can gain permission to visit his summer palace at Amber, seven miles distant, and he furnishes elephants for the journey. The elephant was made to kneel by a little tap on the knees and a ladder placed beside him for us to mount, and we started on the unsteady, monotonous ride. As he slowly puts his great feet to the ground the motion is very much like that of "the ship of the desert," and some people suffer seasickness from it. After riding one hour on an elephant we reached Amber palace, which is a huge, rambling building with gardens and terraces in-closed for the ladies of the harem, and latthred balconies for them to sit on. We wandered around for several hours, then took our places again on the elephant's back and returned to our hotel. We were also conducted through the rajah's city pal-ace, saw his stables and carriages and fed the alligators with raw meat.

A journey of thirty-six hours brought us to Bombay, on the 8th of December. We had entered India by the back door (Calcutta) and had just now reached the front, but by so doing we had found ample accommodations in the trains, whereas the travel eastward from Bombay was very heavy, all trains being crowded. The steamers in which we were to sail and just arrived from England with 400 cabin passengers (the Peninsular and Oriental ships do not carry steerage), and we found the hotels in Bombay very crowded; but next day there was a large exodus to the hill country; people returning to their posts after summering in England England.

The constant increase of mortality from the bubonic plague in Bombay would have alarmed us very much except there was not a case recorded among the Europeans. The native quarter was some miles from the city, and of course we kept away

Entering Bombay at the Victoria stabe the finest in the world. Then a round of the public buildings and parks, mercan-tile houses and residences proved that the English have spent money lavishly to make their eastern home one of the most attractive cities in the world.

The Parsees, a religious sect who have their headquarters in Bombay, are by far the most intelligent and prosperous class in India, and many of them have very fine homes. We drove to the Towers of Silence, the place where they take their dead. No one but the attending priest can enter; their form is to place the body on the top of the tower and leave it to be devoured by vultures, of which there are a great number. After the flesh is gone the bones fall through the iron grating into the tower, and the rain, trickling through the mass below, purifies them, and mingles itself with mother earth. The Apalo Bunda, fronting the bay, is the fashionable promenade, and here the tenders land the passengers from the steamers, anchored some distance From here one bright December day we sailed and said goodby to all those interesting and beautiful scenes which had given us so much pleasure. India was be-

But the close of the ceremony brought an exuberant flutter and a rush of gayety among the guests who filed up to put in their congratulations and extend their wishes for huge happiness to the swarthy warrior and his young bride. And these congratulations were framed in the most happy phrases, at which the general smiled and chuckled. "Sir, this is the greatest victory you have ever won."

Gathering of the Guests.

Early in the afternoon the guests had begun to gather at the executive mansion and there was a flurry of expectancy about the big halls. During the morning

A bank or roses was heaped up at the base of the palms and from all parts of the room the scene was most striking. Over the mantle, too, the flowers had been gathered into unique designs and maiden hair ferns, tied with blue ribbons, were scattered about in negligent profusion

These externalities of the affair showed the utmost care and consideration in preparation.

There were about seventy-five invited quests, including the statehouse officials, all of whom had received special invitations and all of whom looked upon the event as a kind of family affair, for they had served with the fair librarian for some

The Ceremony Prompt.

It was at the time appointed for the summation of the event that Father Schadewell, of the Church of the Immac-Wate Conception, entered the room and took his stand before the alter. Not a treat while passed before the grim visage of the groom showed itself at the door. The general was garbed in an evening ouit with a glistening collar of conven-tional elevation and a white bow neatly tied. There was the firmness of the hero h his step, and a smile of serene satis-faction on his ruddy face. The general entered upon the arm of Judge J. B. made by General Longstreet in a clear cut lone, almost as ringing as the commands a battle field, and Miss Dortch replied with fine precision.

After the regular ritual was finished

Father Schadewell delivered impromptu emarks of an interesting nature.

"And now," he said, turning to the couple, "I have in store for you a surprise which possibly has not been anticipated. When I applied to the bishop for special dispensation to perform this ceremony outside the walls of the holy church, in granting this he added the desire that I pestow his blessing on you, and the blessing of the church. This I do and give you my own blessing with wishes for great

Refreshments were served in the dining

It was soon after the ceremony, however, that the couple was forced to leave for they were to get off on the 4:30 train for Porter Springs, where they will spend their honeymoon. The two carriages drove off while the crowd waved its adieux.

The couple will remain at Porter Springs for some weeks. In the meantime Mrs General Longstreet will not give up her race for the position of state librarian. She is as an active candidate as ever, and will continue to hold the office of assistant until decision is made by the governor in reference to the other office.

Miss Dortch was educated at Notre Dame of Maryland, near Baltimore. She was a classmate with the daughters of the late Admiral Meade, United States navy, and of Miss Gerrish Smith, one of General Grant's nieces. Miss Dortch was a close student and a favorite with pupils and

CRIMINAL COURT'S RAPID WORK. Many Cases Disposed of by Judge

Berry Yesterday. The criminal branch of the city court, which is presided over by Judge Berry, did a good day's business yesterday and disposed of fifteen criminal cases. There was no unnecessary delay in the workings of the court and the juries brought in verdicts promptly. The cases on the docket were disposed of rapidly.

Jerry Williams, a young negro man, was given three months for having in his possession a broken pistol. The pistol Willlams had was hammerless and disabled in other ways, according to the statement made by him. The jury did not view the case as he did and found him guilty of carrying concealed weapons.

Richard Lowe, who was tried for larceny, Richard Lowe, who was tried for larceny, was acquitted. It seems that he had worked for the Atianta Soda Company, and had filled a bottle with grape cider. He was accused of trying to take it away and was arrested. The jury thought he had not committed a crime.

None of the cases tried were of very great importance and were of the same nature.

their committee, but will probably do so within the next few days, when the date for the conference will be fixed. From present indications the most populous portions of the proposed territory will be admitted as an addition to the sixth ward and the plan for making a new ward will be dropped.

The mutineers claim, however, they will fight the plan to the bitter end. Mr. Rice says they will come around all right before many moons and finally agree that the privileges of citizenship in Atlanta are greater than they had anticipated.

JOE TERRELL TO ACT AS SOLICITOR

McCullough.

Solicitor Hill Is Sick and McCullough Won't Be Tried Until Monday.

hall, and here the general was in his hap- | Colonel Terrell Will Have To Familiarize Himself with the Case, Which

Will Take Some Time.

Attorney General Terrell may be called upon to prosecute John McCullough, the Clayton county man accused of murdering his wife.

McCullough's case was postponed yesterday on account of the serious illness of Solicitor Charley D. Hill, who was expected to conduct the prosecution in the place of Solicitor W. T. Kimsey, who is disqualified. Solicitor Hill sent Judge Candler a message to the effect that he was very ill and next Monday, Judge Candl postponed the case until that time.

If Mr. Hill had not been ill the case would have gone on trial yesterday. The civil docket was finished Tuesday afternoon and the civil docket was opened at once. McCullough's case was to have been tried first, but the prosecution not being able to be present it could not be taken up.

Solicitor Hill is very ill and there is small likelihood that he will be able to go to Jonesboro Monday. If he is unable to go, the judge will have to again postpone the case or call on the governor for another solicitor. There is some sentiment against a further postponement of the case. Judge Marcus Beck will preside for Judge

Candler next week. The judge is disqualified in a number of cases and he has secur-ed the services of Judge Beck for the en-Judge Candler said last night that he would probably call upon the governor to send Attorney General Terrell to prosecute the case. He was not certain, but said it might be necessary.

Very unusual, indeed, will be the situation if the attorney general is called into the case. Very few cases are on record where this has been necessary. Only in case of absolute necessity is the attorne general asked to act. His duties are to advise the capitol officials and not to go into general prosecution. The attorney general will have a very able opposition counsel. Colonel W. C. Glenn will be assisted by Colonel Tom Watson and Colonel J. B. Hutchinson. If Attorney General Terrell is asked to try the case, it will be necessary to post-pone it for some time, as he will have to acquaint himself with the details of the prosecution's side. A great deal of interest is felt in the case in Clayton county. Large crowds fill the streets of Jonesboro every day and the courthouse is jammed all day to attract an unusual interest, and besides there are some of the most prominent people in the county mixed up in the case.

It is very probable that McCullough will not go on trial next Monday.

City Council. From present indications work will probably be begun on the proposed improvement of Whitehall street immediately after the next meeting of council. The city and county have agreed to each share one-half of the expense and nothing now remains to be done but secure the deeds from property owners along that thoroughfare. The special committee is still working to this end. Their efforts have met with great success and they state the plan will about giving up their property, but it is hoped they will finally yield before the work begins.

The majority of those objecting to the improvement were afraid they would be called upon to bear a portion of the ex-pense necessary to paving and widening the street. The resolution introduced by Councilman Cuiberson at the last council meeting has dispelled all such illusions, however, and with the exception of those who refuse to give up their land under any circumstances everything is now in readi-ness for the work to begin.

The committee does not intend to sacrifice the whole plan just because a few property owners object to making the necessary donations. Every inducement will be offered to them.

DIED FROM A RIFLE SHOT. Old Man Johnston Dies at the Hospital from an Accidental Wound.

John Johnson, the old man who accidently shot himself in the abdomen Tuesday afternoon while cleaning out one of his rifles, died yesterday morning at the Grady hospital, where he had been taken for treatment.

Johnson was an old man, being in the neighborhood of sixty years of age, and was well known in the city. He had con-ducted a shooting gallery for a long time and was shot in his place of business, which is situated at 99 Decatur street. He was in the act of cleaning out one of his rifles with a ramrod when the gun in his hand happened to strike one of the loaded ones lying on the table. In some way the hammer fell, firing the cartridge, the ball striking the old man in the abde nen. He was at once taken to the Grady nospital, where it was ascertained that his wound was a dangerous one.

out he never recovered from the effects of the shot and continued to sink until he iled yesterday morning. His remains were taken to his residence, where the funeral services will take place this morning Johnson was well liked by all who knew him. He was a quiet old man and made many friends in his simply way.

Postoffices are the principal game for which the boss is looking. He knows of offices all over the state that he thinks belong to the republicans. He has big batches of recommendations for his friends whom he wants to fill these places. It is said that Mr. Johnson may try to work a revolution in the civil service. The present system has proved very distasteful, and it looked for a while as if it might and it looked for a while as if it might cost him his job. He said yesterday that he saw no remedy for the existing condi-tion of affairs as the president had decided in favor of the present construction of the civil service laws. The Atlanta postoffice is already fixed. President McKinley has made Major Smyth

Chief of Police Offers a Reward for the Missing Man.

Offer.

The Extent of the Alleged Shortage Cannot Be Made Public. The Circular.

CIRCULARS WILL BE ISSUED TODAY

A reward of $250 has been offered for the arrest of I. R. Branham and circulars giv-ing a detailed description of him were yesterday mailed to the police chiefs of the country.

The reward was offered yesterday through Chief Manly, of the police department here, and the entire matter has been left in his hands by those who desire the capture of the absent young man. The reward was offered by Mr. M. McD. Pritchard, who acted for the National Building Association; Mr. George S. May, a private banker of this city, and Mr. J. H. Morton, a Florida merchant. It is said that all of these gentlemen have suffered by their acquaintance with Branham and by their acquaintance with Branham she it is certain that they are very anxious to have bim brought back to this city.

Branham was connected with the National Building Association and was thought to be thoroughly reliable in every respect. He has enjoyed a good reputation in this community and was entrusted with the efficiency of the association as if they the affairs of the association as if they were his own.

The first intimation that he had gone wrong was the discovery of an alleged shortage in his accounts with the National Building Association. He left the city about the time that this supposed shortage was discovered and has not been heard from since. He had not more than fairly gone, however, before other people began to inquire for him and up to the present time there are some half dozen who claim to have been swindled by him.

George S. May says that the young man owes him between $1,000 and $2,000, the ex-act amount not being known. J. H. Mor-ton, who comes from Florida and who is in business in that state, claims that Bran-ham sold him stock in the National Buildham sold him stock in the National Building Association amounting in all to $1,000. This amount was paid in advance, Branham giving the Florida man a receipt and saying that he would forward the stock in a few days. Morton never received his stock and he therefore offers part of the $250 reward for the apprehension of the young man. Since Branham left the city some ten days ago nothing has been heard from him by any one here.

There is absolutely no clew as to his whereabouts, but everything possible will SUPERB SATEEN SILESIA. 40 inches wide, all staple shades and Manly's Letter Sent Out. It was at first supposed that no effort would be made to have Branham brought back to this city, and the action taken yesterday by the gentlemen who are interested in the matter will be in the nature of a surprise to the friends or Branham. It is almost impossible to tell, but it is alleged that the total amount of his alleged shortages will reach nearly $5,000. The offer is as follows:

$250 Reward. "The above sum will be paid by George S. May, the National Building Association, by M. McD. Pritchard and J. H. Morton, for the arrest and detention in any safe jall in any country from which he can be extradited of I. R. Branham, charged with embezzlement, forgery and obtaining extracted of 1. R. Brannan, with embezzlement, forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses.

"Description—Branham is thirty-five years old, looks older, quite sallow complexion, dark around the eyes, gray hair, and a un extracted an head and cut pompiexion, dark around the eyes, gray hair, stands up straight on head and cut pompadour. Slim of build, about five feet s.x or seven inches high, weight 140 pounds. Uses words 'flat' and 'absolutely' a great deal in conversation. Usually goes well dressed, wearing ready made clothing. He is accompanied by his wife, who is a small woman weighing ninety pounds, short, curly hair, slightly sallow complexion. Calls her husband 'Rich.' Address all communications to W. P. MANLY, "Chief of Police."

These notices were printed yesterday and last night sent out to all the cities throughout the country, and if he has not left for a foreign land he will probably be arrested in a few days. The people who have been duped by him are determined to do all they can to arrest him and have him make an explanation.

As the time goes the number of his alleged victims increase and the case grows more and more complicated. It is said to be one of the most peculiar cases of its kind on the records of Atlanta. drafts came through the Atlanta banks yesterday from all parts of Georgia and his old office has many visitors daily.

Mr. Eb T. Williams, who is one of the agents of the association, says that he will see all the stockholders of the association personally as his office has been overrun by many callers who wish to know where they stand. Today Branham's desk and papers will be examined and the status of his affairs will probably be known.

The books of the association are undergoing thorough investigation and it will be known very soon as to whether he has got the association for anything or not. Developments are rapidly coming to the surface and each day brings some new ones.

The people from whom Branham collected money presumably for the association are hot after the association to make it good. The association says that Branhan did not have the authority to collect any money and they are not liable for it.

LESS MANIPULATIONS

Stock Very Irregular, but General Tone One of Strength.

REALIZING ON LARGE SCALE

Offerings for This Purpose More Naturally Absorbed and the Close Was Generally Strong. New York, September 8.-Today's stock market was very irregular, but it was much less under manipulation than for over a week past, and the general tone was one of strength. There was realizing on a large scale all day, but the offerings for this purpose were more naturally absorbed. There was no one stock lifted by sensational jumps to stimulate buying of those realizing offerings, a condiing of those realizing offerings, a co tion in marked contrast to the invariable rule for many days past. Northern Pacific preferred, which was the stock under manipulation for a rise yesterday, was rathinpulation for a rise yesterday, was rather a drag on the market all day today and lost a point of its gain, the common stocks showing a fractional advance. The course of the market was downward at the opening, in sympathy with the declines in Americans on the London exchange. Strength developed in a number of stocks which stemmed the decline and carried prices to the best of the day. Profit taking at the close caused the loss of part of the gain, so that not changes in hearly of the leading shares are of very narrow proportions. The decision of the Atchison directors to pay 3 per cent on the investment bonds out of the carnings for the year ending June 30th revived the attention to the securities of that company, and all of the stocks and bonds were very active all day. The preferred stock, which has been held down by realizing sales for some time past, opened off % per cent, but rose at one time 2½ points from the lowest. Profit taking at the close reduced its net gain to 1½ per cent. The adjustment bond gained a point net. There were 79,000 shares of the preferred stock sold during the day. New York Central lost a point in the early dealings, but more than recovered it on the publication of stock declined fractionally at the opening. but rose strongly 1% and fell off a fraction near the close on profit taking. Sugar was subject to a rush to realize when it became known that the directors had declared only the regular quarterly dividends of 3 per cent on the common and 1% per cent on the preferred stock. It had been rumored that an extra dividend would be declared. After rising to 156% after the opening the price fell to 153 and fluctuated in a very erratic manner, but closed at a recovery of over 2 points. The preferred stock also fell over 2 points. Notable gains were made by the Lead stocks, the common gaining nearly 2 points and the preferred 3 points. Illinois Central gained 2½ per cent on reports of large increased earnings. Louisvill Southern preferred and Mobile and Ohio recovered a point or over of their early depression, which was due to the yellow fever scare. There was some movement in stocks of the coal roads on prospects of a settlement of the miners strike. Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred gained 2%.

The total sales of stocks today were 507,692 shares, including Atchison 19820, ditto preferred 73.25, Cléesapeake and Ohio 8,990, Chicago, Burilington and Quincy 18,780, Illinois Central 11,100, Louisville and Nashville 14,820, Missouri Pacific 2,060, New York Central 8,340, Northern Pacific 23,550, ditto preferred 38,820, Afteading 16,670, Rock Island 7,120, St. Paul 23,950, Southern Railway preferred 13,025, Texas Pacific 6,165, Wabasb preferred 5,960, Bay State Gas 19,150, Chicago Great Western 9,700.

Dealings in bonds were of large proportions and at higher prices. The total sales were $4,500,000. The Atchison, Northern Facific and Union Pacific, Denver and Gulf issues absorbed the bulk of the dealings.

Paine, Murphy & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Atlanta, September 8.—The market continues dull and featureless with the feeling rather nervous. The most unfavorable factor at the present time is the continued slack speculative demand, which leaves the market in a more vulnerable position and invites attacks from the bears. Cotton has declined to a point, however, which, when compared with the market value of other speculative commodities, makes it appear relatively cheap, and in view of the fact that current crop reports indicate that the condition of the plant has deteriorated considerably during the past two weeks, it would appear that for the time being at least, the unfavorable factors in the situation have been practically discontinued. There is outstanding a very extensive short interest, and should sentiment undergo any change the result would be a substantial increase in the demand both for consumption and speculation. While the movement is becoming relatively larger than ifteretofore, receipts are still considerably less than at the corresponding time last year. This morning's advinces from Liverpool were distinctly encouraging. As a result the New York market opened at an advance of 3 to 4 points, but as has been the case recently, the New York crowd offered prices down until the improvement had been more than lost. Liverpool was a moderate buyer at the opening, but has subsequently sold a small quantity. Crop reports are of such a character as to justify the expectation that the bureau report will be a rather unfavorable one. New York spots 7½c; sales 656 bales.

New York, September 8.—By Associated Press: The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 2 to 4 points on more favorable English news than looked for, but almost immediately gave way under rumors of good rains in Texas, increased estimates for port rece.pts and signs of weakness in the English market, indicated by subsequent advices. Liverpool was a fair buyer on the call, but turned seller on the decline. New Orleans sold slightly this morning, but purchased the late months in a small way in the afternoon. September was about the only option that showel pronounced weakness. Opening at 7.10, and advance to 7.12 was followed by a steady drop to 7c. The late months improved in the forenoon on light local covering, started by reduced estimates for tomorrow's port receipts and fears that Friday's government report will be more builtish than had at first been anticipated. The market closed steady with September 6 points lower. October 2 points lower and the balance of the list 1 point higher.

Closed steady : sales 10,600 bales which it appears a difficult matter to give prices an upward tendency. The Liverpool news was fully as good as any one ex-pected, while the spinners were disposed to buy more freely, causing 1-32 advance on the spot. The demand for spots in Liver-real is any forcesting as the stock of the spot. The demand for spots in Liverpool is apt to continue, as the stock at that point will not be materially increased for some time, as, the early receipts of new cotton will be absorbed by the lome spinners. As to the crop news at hand today, it has not been of a re-assuring character, and the complaints of shedding drought, insects, etc., are from sections more numerous and more distributed than heretofore. Prices, while fluctuating within a narrow range during most of the session, were inclined to firmness, and the close shows a gain over yesterday of 2 points.

kets, and sales are of moderate proportions so far this week. Sellers are not inclined to-part with goods at less than %c for contracts and buyers still refuse to pay higher prices for these goods. Prints continue fairly busy, with stapies exceedingly firm, and fancy calleos in extremely fair demand, all at strong prices. Ginghams are well maintained at the advances recently quoted, with a moderate demand reported from day to day. Woolen goods are still quiet, but well sustained.

New York, September 8.—The disposition of the market is apparently to improve with any encouragement. There is an absence of efforts to depress prices, which in the main have prevailed for some time past. Both sides seem to take moderate profits and small losses. The market is apparently shaping itself for a good turn one way or the other, and now that October and November have resumed their normal positions in relation to the later months, it leaves the field open for a good advance, if the outside public, whose attention is still largely confined to stocks and wheat, should take a speculative notion to buy cotton. A lerge movement, which is ton Letter. wheat, should take a speculative notion to buy cotton. A lerge movement, which is not in evidence, and a slack spot demand would bring about accumulations in the south, and this in turn would encourage a feeling that the near months might drop to 60c. On the other hand the longer domestic and foreign spaners delay buying the greater will be competition for cotton should it develop simultaneously.

A FRACTION LOWER

Decline in Wheat Was Due To - Short Selling and Realizing.

EXPORT DEMAND WAS URGENT

Corn Weak and 1-2 to 5-8c Lower Oats Firm, but 1-8c Lower-Provisions Quiet and Lower.

Chicago, September 8.—Wheat closed to day at a decline of 4c in December, the active future. The decline was due to short selling and realizing, and was in the face of a very urgent export demand. Corn was weak at about 1/2c decline, the predicted break in the long, disastrous drought injecting some ginger into the bears. Oats declined 1/sc, pork 20c and ribs 567/5c. Lard was only a shade lower.
Wheat opened strong at from 95/4696/5c for December, compared with 96/5c at the close yesterday. For twenty minutes is struggled upward, and at the end of that the compared with the company with the company of the company with the company wi people who had been selling for scalp were people who had been selling for scalp were compelled to buy, but about that time the neavy noiders of long wheat loaded the market with all it could take and continued sening until the previous addition to the price nad been driven out and a decline of the established, the price naving receded from 96%c to 30%c. Liverpool opened about %d higher, and somewhat later advices snowed another %d advance. That was the reason for the opening strength. Paris advices of the condition of the foreign crop were all of a gloomy tendency. Chicago received 512 cars and out ten of them were contract quality. Minneapolis and Duluth got 502 cars, compared with 920 the corresponding day of the previous year. The Atlantic export clearances of wheat and hour were equal to 50,000 busnels. Closing caoses reported a material advance at Paris and Antwerp, equal to 24,000 cars of the later. caoles reported a material advance at Paris and Antwerp, equal to 2% googe per bushel at the former and to 4c per ousnel at the latter. The news from New York about the foreign demand for wheat was quite as strong as it was yesterday. Every one who offered wheat by cable last hight received acceptances and requests for further offers. New York took and the cash wheat offered from Detroit, according to a dispatch from the latter city, and a message emanating from St. Louis said that a Loudon caolegram reported locusts in the Santa Fe province, Argentina. The origin of the caolegram being rather obscure hot much attention was paid to it, but the great foreign demand for cash wheat, and the strength of continental markets renewed the builtsh feeling and the decline that followed the first advance was recovered, the price of December once more reaching 86% At that price realizing sales again became public heavy, and the publish heavy. At that price realizing sales again be quite heavy, and the market gradually defined to 35%c, where it closed.

Corn was irregular. The market open firm on the dry, hot weather, and continued on the dry. Corn was irregular. The market opened firm on the dry, hot weather, and continued crop damage reports, the reports today being the worst so far received. This caused some covering by shorts and a slight advance, which was lost, however, when the weather bureau predicted rains in the corn belt and a general break in the hot spell. A slight recovery ensued later with wheat. Atlantic port clearances were 689,000 bushels, and New York reported a strong demand and heavy sales for export. Receipts were 1,329 cars. December ranged from 33% to 32%,62% cars. December ranged from 33% to 32%,62% cose.

Oats were relatively firm, almost holding their own, although there was a break of %c in corn at one time. The speculative trade was very moderate and fluctuations were confined to a narrow range. The shipping demand was large, a sustaining factor, Local receipts were 364 cars. New York wired 580,000 bushels taken for export. December ranged between 20% and 21c, closing at 20% casked, an advance of %c.

Provisions were very quiet. The market ruled easy, the result of the yellow lever scare. There was some support, but not so energetic as yesterday, the result being a gradual decline. The decline in corn was a weakening influence. At the close December port was 20c lower at $4.85, and December of the yellow lever at 24.000 head.

Colonel Isaac Wheeler Avery died at his day afternoon. He received a fall from his back veranda Tuesday night which parabed him, and he was unable to move a limb of his body or speak to the time of his death, which was due to his tragic His death was very sudden, and his family, who are now at the home in Edgewood, are well nigh prostrated at the suddenness of it. Yesterday Mrs. Avery was completely overcome. Thus ends a life which has been interwoven with many foremost incidents of Georgia history. The funeral will occur from the First Methodist church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and the interment will be at Oakland. At 12 o'clock on Tuesday night the watchdog which keeps guard during the night at the Avery home began to bark furiously in the rear of the yard. Colonel Avery, who had retired, hearing the dog, got up dark and he could distinguish nothing. He walked further out on the veranda to get a better view of the surrounding premises. He received a wound in the spine during the late war which has been aggravated by subsequent injuries, and for a long time he has not been able to walk any distance without the aid of a crutch. His footing was not sure, and in walking on the veranda in the dark he missed his step and and striking on his head, a bad wound was made over the left temple. He uttered no cry when the accident occurred, and Mrs. Avery, hearing no unusual noise, had no thought of what had befallen him. She waited for several minutes, and he did not return. Then she arose and went to look for him, thinking that probably some one and approaching it she was horrified to find it was Colonel Avery, and she spoke to him. He only said the one word, "paralysis." Aid was quickly summoned and he was carried into the house.

Drs. Kendrick and Smith were sent for and made a careful examination of his condition. They found him paralyzed from the neck down, and his inability to speak was doubtless due to paralysis of the vocal cords. They pronounced him unable to live long, and the members of his family were sent for. His son was there, and his daughter, Mrs. Wilkins, of Greenville, S. C., was telegraphed. "Isaac Wheeler Avery, lawyer, journalist and historian, was born at St. Augustine, Fla., May 2, 1837. His father traced his lineage to 1339 in England, and one progenitor married a grand-daughter of John Winthrop, the famous colonial governor of Massachusetts. His mother, Mary M. King, was of a family noted in New York's early annals and moved to Savanrah in 1845.

"He was taught by a famous teacher, Rev. George White, a noted historian of Georgia, and was graduated from Oglethorpe university, Georgia, in 1854, taking at fourteen first sophomore prize for eloquence. He taught a year at seventeen and was legislative correspondent at nine-teen of the two leading democratic dailies of the state.

General Joe Johnston, in his narrative, noted the fact of his retaining his command while thus wounded. General Beauregard complimented him by special order for valuable scouting. Major General Wharton wrote that there was no better officer in his division. Lieutenant General Wheeler officially reported him a gallant and discreet officer.

His Work for Law.

His Work for Law.

"Colonel Avery wielded a strong and scholarly pen. Just after the war society was lawless, and men given to abuse in public issues. Colonel Avery, since then a devout Methodist, resolved to correct the wide evil so far as the example of the leading state paper could, by holding others responsible while avoiding offense. He had four affairs of honor, forcing men to undo aspersion, correcting the evil largely. His course was in contrast with his gentle, sunny, home-loving and courteous spirit, but under the code it was an honest anomaly to duel for public duty which he afterwards condemned. As an editor he combined with ability and fearlessness a singular justice and conservatism. His history of Georgia was called by the northern press a 'vivid epic' and 'thrilling chronicle.' His wife, wedded in 1868, was Emma Bivings, whose mother was of that family which gave Ben Cleveland, 'the hero of King's mountain.' to American history. In the spring of 1892 Colonel Avery began the movement for the establishment of direct trade between the southern ports and forcing countries. In this he was so successful that the first year saw several lines in operation, notably between Brunswick, Ga. THE HEARING BEFORE LUMPKIN

Application Was Made for Bond and He Heard the Case.

MANY WITNESSES TESTIFIED FOR ENGLISH

At Conclusion of Hearing Judge Lumpkin Granted Application-Will Give Bond Today.

Judge Lumpkin, after hearing the application for ball for Lon English and his fellow prisoners yesterday afternoon, allowed the four young men, who were indicted for murder, to make bond. The bonds of Lee English, Theodore Thomason and Jim Thomason were each fixed at $500, and were made immediately after the hearing was concluded. They were allowed to go home last night The bond of Lon English, who struck old man Brown the blow that killed him was placed at $5,000, Judge Lumpkin holding that it was not a capital crime. A large array of witnesses were brought before Judge Lumpkin yesterday when the hearing was had, and the defense was prepared to make a good showing. After it was entered into, the hearing consumed a great length of time.

The state was represented by Soliciton Pro Tem. Will Hill and by Attorney Frank O'Brien, who has been connected with the prosecution since the case was first carried to the courts.

The defendants were represented by Arnold & Arnold, and the witnesses for the four young men were extremely numerous. The greater portion of the evidence was for the defense.

Bill Williams, the overseer of the district in which the work on the roads was done. was placed on the stand. He stated that he had appointed old man Brown overseer of one gang of men on the morning of the difficulty and Lee English overseer of the other. He said that Uncle Billy Brown wanted certain of the men in English's gang to work for him, and had asked him (Williams) about it. He had told Brown that he could do nothing further than had already been done, and could not force the men to work under him.

It seems that Brown then spoke of one of the Thomason boys and accused him of having stolen a pistol, and branded him as a thief. Williams said the distance be tween the two gangs was about half a mile, and if Brown went there he had gone out of his own territory.

Lee English Test...es.

Lee English, the overseer of the gang in which the Thomason boys worked, and a brother of Lon English, was next placed on the stand. He told of how he had been appointed overseer of the gang, and how he had gone to work. He said that old man Brown came to where his gang was working and asked that he send one of th Thomason boys. English said he would not make the man wanted by Brown go with him, and the old man then got mad. It seems that he called Jim Thomason a thief, and said he would have him arrested. To this it appears that Jim replied that the old man was a liar. English said that old man Brown then threatened to send for the rest of his workmen and fight it out. English said he begged the old man not to do this, and asked him not to raise a

He said that then Charley Brown appeared on the scene and used very strong language. It appears that then Lon English suggested that Jim put down his tools and fight it out fair. This, said Lee Eng-lish, seemed to make the old man mad at Lon, and he sprang at him with an open knife. Lon, he said, stepped back and as the old man continued to approach and strike at him, raised his pick and struck Brown on the head with the side of it, His evidence was to the effect that no attempt was made to hound the old man down, and that the whole affair was brought on by Brown himself.

Jim Thomaston and Theodore Thomason both gave the same version of the affair as that given by Lee English. They both said that Brown was approaching English when the fatal blow was struck. A large num-ber of other witnesses were examined, and they all gave testimony of a like character. At the conclusion of the hearing, after the defense had closed its side of the case, Judge Lumpkin announced that he would allow the two Thomason boys and Lee English to give a bond of $500 and Lon English to give a bond of $5,000. The three whose bonds were placed at $500 gave them last night, and were immediately released. Lon English will make bond this morning, it is said. MORE TROUBLE FOR PRITCHETT.

J. C. Pritchett, who was arrested by the police department Monday evening, be-ing suspected of disposing of his wife, but who was liberated Tuesday upon the appearance of his spouse in Columbus, Ga., was turned over to a bailiff from Landrum's court yesterday afternoon and he will be prosecuted in that court on the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

It will be remembered that previous to his arrest for murder he had a row with a negro man, Jim Pride, in a stable yard. For this a case of disorderly conduct was booked against him at the police court. Vesterday morning Pride went before Jus-Yesterday morning Pride went before Justice Landrum and swore out a warrant against Pritchett, charging him with assault. This was set for 9 o'clock yester day morning, but as the prosecutor failed to appear it was dismissed. Pride then charged Pritchett with carrying concealed weapons and swore out a warrant to that effect before Justice Landrum. When Recorder Calhoun heard of this warrant yesterday afternoon the disorderly case was dismissed and Pritchett was turned over to the balliff who was in waiting for him. It is not known when the

Yesterday in court it was stated that the delay was caused by a spike which had come out of one of the tires, locking the switch. The railroad men said it was not their fault, but Recorder Calboun imposed a fine on them. He said: "In the future I will fine all parties who are brought before me for blocking a crossing. No excuse whatever will be accepted, and you had best tell all of the other railroad men of my intention. These crossings have been blocked long enough and from now on I will take no excuse."

Louisville and Nashville Officials Got the The Mayor Vetoed an Application for Judge Candler Signs the Bill of Wrong Impression.

There Was No Intention To Make a Change in the Western.

MR. MILTON SMITH WAS SURPRISED

He Had Prepared for Opposition and Found That There Was None-Differences Are Left to Courts.

Now that the Western Railway of Alabama's annual election has passed smooth-y by, no friction is looked for in the Atanta and West Point's election, which is to be held in Atlanta next Tuesday.

Vice President Egan, of the Central, who was enjoined at the Montgomery meeting. t yesterday in Atlanta. He said that injunction was a complete surprise to He went over to vote the Central's stock and did not take along a lawyer. He Smith would be there and they did not seem to know. When the stockholders went to the directors' room to hold the annual meeting they found, Mr. Smith ying on a lounge. He had gone early. The next thing that happened the sheriff served an injunction on Mr. Egan restraining him from voting the Central's stock.
"What is this for?" Mr. Egan inquired with surprise. "I came over to vote for with surprise. "I came ove the old board of directors."

Then explanations were in order. Mr. Milton Smith said that he had expected trouble. He was under the impression that Mr. Egan would vote the Central's 15,600 shares and try to vote 7,500 shares of the stock in the Western claimed by the Central under the old lease. That would be threefourths of the stock, and the Louisville Egan explained that this was a mistaken impression—that he was peaceably disposed and intended to cast the Central's vote for the old board. This was a surprise to the Louisville and Nashville element and President Milton Smith withdrew his objections. Then it was proposed that Mr. Egan should be a committee of one on credentials and say what stock should vote. When the election came off the Central's stock was voted for the old board, which was re-elected. Mr. Egan was put on in place of the late Major Shellman. President Comer, who is also a member of the directory was absent in the west. It turned out that one of the Louisville and Nashville directors had taken seri-ously a remark which was made in jest some time ago, and acting on that Mr. Milton Smith had authorized the applicature will be omitted from the Atlanta and West Point's annual meeting. Mr. Egan, who is acting president of the Central, says that the rights of the Central and the Louisville and Nashville to the Geo gia's stock are in litigation and it is bes to let things run along as they are until the questions in dispute are finally settled

POLITICAL ISSUES.

North Carolina Populists and Some Republicans Favor the Policy. Judge Walter Clark, of North Carolina's supreme court, is said to want a place on the railroad commission. He is the most hostile man to railroads in North Carolina and is said to be in training for governor. John Graham, president of the Farmers' Alliance of North Carolina, stands a good chance to get one of the places if Gover-Russell suspends the two Wilsons who are on the board. Russell is fighting the roads bitterly. It is the policy of the Russell republicans and the populists to make the railroads an issue in the state campaign to prevent the whites from going to the democrats. Senator Pritchard is in favor of maintaining the present lease.

The South Carolina and Georgia Contemplating Reaching South Georgia. The presence in Dublin, Ga., of some uth Carolina and Georgia officials a few days ago gave rise to the report that a line will be built from Tennille to Dublin, to connect with the Oconee and Western and then go on to Cordele or some other point on the Georgia Southern and Florida.
President James V. Jackson, of the Au-gusta Southern, says that he has a plan for extending his line from Tennille to Alpart of the South Carolina and Georgia system. He is quoted in The Augusta system. He is quoted in The Augusta Chronicle as saying:
"From Tennille it is proposed to build to Dublin a line which will parallel the Wrightsville and Tennille, though only twenty-seven miles long, whereas the Wrightsville and Tennille is thirty-six. At Dublin the road now known as the Oconee and Western will be utilized as far as Hawkinsville, which is forty miles. Then it is only thirty miles from Hawkinsville to Cordele. This connection will have to be made by building. Reaching Cordele it is forty miles further to Albany by a road already in operation. This will make Albany only 221 miles from Augusta, of which distance only fifty-seven miles must be builded."

distance only fifty-seven miles must be builded."

Dooly county raises 50,000 bales of cotton a year. Augusta would expect to get a large part of this cotton.

"Within a radius of thirty miles of Cordele in the lumber district, there are 1,000 cars of lumber per month shipped away. Dooly county is one of the most productive in the state. The other rich counties along the line from Tennille to Albany are Washington, Johnson, Laurens, Dodge, Pulaski. Worth, Lee and Dougherty."

A mass meeting will be held at Cordele today to see what can be done. If this line should be completed it will enable the Charleston fertilizers to find a large market in south Georgia.

There's no question about it. Hood's Sar-saparilla is the best blood purifier. This is proven by its wonderful cures of blood diseases.

COLLIER HOT AFTER THE DANCE HALLS

License Yesterday.

Thinks Such Places Should Not Be | He Will Not Hang in Two Years, So Tolerated by the City.

TAKES STROLL ON LOWER DECATUR STREET

Watches the Dence of the Denizens and Determines To Stop It-Mr. Hirsch Says Amen.

Mayor Collier has begun an active cru against all the dance halls of At-He took the first step yesterday when he vetoed the application for a license passed up by the police committee and the council at the last meeting Mr. Collier is determined that these dens of iniquity are not worthy of the patron-age of the city of Atlanta and is determined to drive every one of them out. Here after he will veto every application, whether passed by council or not. It is claimed that there are one or two of these dens that are respectable and where good order is always preserved. Mr. Collier, however, cannot see it that way. He attended one of these dances of the denizens a few nights ago on lower Decatur street for the purpose of seeing for himself how the places are run and he was completely disgusted with what he negroes reveling in their uncanny amuse-ment for nearly an hour, and as he left the hall it was with a firm determination to have every similar den in the city closed up. He has begun the good work in this direction now and it is safe to say there will be no more dance halls licensed during his administration.

"The city has no business licensing these places," said he yesterday afternoon.

"They are regular havens for crime—dens of iniquity. I am going to veto every ap-plication for a license of this kind; and every one of them ought to be shut up imnediately." Mayor Collier has the co-operation of Alderman Hirsch, chairman of the police committee. He is also opposed to the the dance halls and will exert his influence to have them closed. The police committee will no doubt take formal action on the matter at their next regular meeting. This will be good news to the police, as these dens cause them more trouble than any nuisance in the city.

The proprietors will make a terrible kick and use every effort for the continuance of their business, but from present indica-tions the dance halls will soon be a thing

HAD A FRIENDLY SCRAP

Three Young Men Indulge in a Fight at the Kimball.

A FRIEND WAS INTERMEDIARY

They Were Having a Lively Time of It When an Officer Interfered and Stopped It.

There was a lively scrimnage in the rotunda of the Kimball house yesterday afterneon about 1:30 o'clock. The principals in the fight were Messrs. Robert Farrer and Miller Brady, both of whom are well known in the city. The cause of the fight is unknown, but it was stated by Farrer yesterday afternoon in the police court that it was the outcome of a quantity of booze which all parties had Mr. A. R. Wright, who is also well known in the city, was present at the scrap and seems to have brought matters to a crisis by attempting to separate the combatants and ending by falling on top of them both. It was at this juncture that Officer Crusselle interfered. The fight was entirely a friendly one, and none of the gentlemen seemed to bear any malice toward each other. It appears that they were standing in the rotunda of the Kimball talking in a quiet and orderly manner yesterday afternoon, when Farrer began to act in a disorderly manner. Brady stated this in the police court, and Farrer admitted that it was true. Soon he directed his attack toward Brady, who resented the manner in which he was being addressed, and the two came to blows. Brady came out of the serimmage with scarcely a mark, but Farrer was bleeding profusely from sundry cuts on his face and lip. None of the bruises are more than skin deep, however, and he will feel no ill offects from them. Arriving will feel no ill effects from them. Arrivin are more than skin deep, however, and he will feel no ill effects from them. Arriving at the barracks under the escort of Officer Crusselle, the young men were allowed to wash themselves, and were then taken almost immediately before Recorder Calboun. There the evidence was heard, and at the end the recorder remarked: "This seems to be nothing more than a bacchanalian revelry." Whereupon Farrer remarked, "Judge, you have hit it just right. It was all in fun."

"What did you have to do with it?" asked Judge Calhoun of Mr. Wright.

"Well, judge," he replied, "I am what might be called the third gentleman, or the intermediate interference."

"You've got me there," replied the recorder: "I never heard that expression before. What do you mean?"

"Judge, that's all he did," here broke in Farrer; "he was just the intermediate interference and nothing more."

"Judge," said Wright, "I mean that acting as a third gentleman and a friend to both parties I acted as an intermediator and separated the combatants."

Recorder Calhoun then dismissed the case against Miller Brady and fined Robert Farrer and A. R. Wright $3 and costs each.

FLANAGAN CASE

THE CENTRAL WAS FOR PEACE | WANTS ALL DENS CLOSED UP | MAY MEAN LIFE FOR PRISONER

Attorneys Say.

NO DECISION SOR SOME

Court Will Not Consider the Case Until the Next Term-Will Be Carried to U. S. Supreme Court.

Judge Candler yesterday affixed his signature to a paper that may result in saving E. C. Flanagan from the fate that befell H. S. Perry on the gallows at Decatur. H. S. Perry on the gallows at Decatur.

Just about the time that the East End murderer buried his face in his blanket to drown out the sound of the falling body and the groaning gibbet, Judge Candler will care. signed the bill of exceptions that will car ry Flanagan's case to the supreme court.

The paper was presented to the judge at Jonesboro. He read the paper and then signed his name to the document. The pa-per was sent immediately to the clerk of the supreme court.

the supreme court.

It is now certain that Flanagan will not die for a long time, even if he is refused a new trial by the supreme court. The signing of the bill of exceptions means several months of life to the condemned man.

The case will not be considered this session. Coming as it does toward the end of the session there is little likelihood of any decision with the part session of the any decision until the next session of the supreme court. If the supreme court gives Flanagan new trial a new lease of life of several months duration will be given him. If a new trial is refused the result will be the same. Flanagan's attorneys will carry the case to the supreme court of the United States. If their plans do not miscarry the case will reach that high tribunal on the latter part of the session and a consideration will be postponed until the following Two years will elapse before the case is finally given a disposition by the courts. The prisoner's attorneys are determined that he shall not die until every chance of life has been exhausted. They claim to have legal machinery that will keep the case grinding for at least two years longer. It is predicted by leading physicians that Flanagan will die a natural death within two years. If this is true, it is possible that the attorneys of the prisoner may succeed in cheating the gallows of its victim.

There is a great deal of speculation about the result of the case in the supreme court Some people are inclined to think that the dence in Judge Candler's wisdom to believe that such will be the case. The judge has tried over a half hundred capital cases and has never yet been reversed in a single case, which is a record that few judges have equaled.
